American Writer Describes Attack upon Coventry

1,000 Dead and Wounded; Large Number Missing In Ruined Homes

Thirty Thousands Incendiary Bombs and Million Pounds of Explosives Dropped on Big City

(Alfred Wall, Indianapolis-born, joined the Associated Press staff in Denver after graduation from the University of Colorado in 1927, later working at Oklahoma City and Tulsa. He joined the cable desk staff shortly after the outbreak of the European war and last month went to London.)

By ALFRED E. WALL.
COVENTRY, England, Nov. 15 (AP)—Coventry, chosen by the German high command for the most concentrated aerial bombardment of the battle of Britain, emerged today from that attack with at least 1,000 dead and wounded, not counting unknown numbers trapped in her smoking wreckage.

Berlin dispatches quoting the high command represented the assault as vengeance for the British bombardment of Munich, birthplace of Nazism. The British raided Munich Nov. 8 when Adolf Hitler was addressing a party rally.

Smash Heart of City
Last night it was Coventry's turn and German bombing planes, busy from dusk to dawn, smashed the heart out of this industrially important city in Britain's smoky Midlands.

The British press association declared, however, that the Germans "failed lamentably" to hit military targets.

Coventry, with a normal population of 190,000, now is known more for her place in midland industry than for her legendary past.

But the streets through which Lady Godiva rode nearly 900 years ago were churned by incendiary and high explosive bombs last night.

Hunt for Dead and Injured
Men strove in a thundering hell against growing piles of stone and smoking timbers to bring out the dead and injured.

Coventry became a proving ground of men against bombs. Stories of heroism, of rescue workers dying in the debris they were trying to move, of first aid workers killed while trying to save lives, of narrow escapes and sudden, wholesale death piled one on another in an overpowering array.

Cases of bomb shock were reported in which the victims, otherwise unscathed, were found stricken dumb and powerless to help themselves after the night of terror.

"The city suffered very seriously and the people bore their ordeal with great courage," commented a London commentator.

Morrison Tours Midlands
Herbert Morrison, minister of home security, and his wife here on a tour of the Midlands, drove into the city this afternoon. Their limousine was confronted by a caravan of white-faced people seeking safety in the country. He prevailed upon them to go back.

They returned to a city which had undergone the worst continuous attack experienced by any in Britain—including London—since the air siege of Britain began.

According to the German version, Coventry was attacked by more than 100 German bombers.

Nazis Say They Repelled Attack By British Fliers

Express Pleasure over Their "Successful" Raid on Coventry

BERLIN, Nov. 16 (Saturday) (AP)—Turning from their "monster" raid on the British midland city of Coventry Thursday night, Nazi warplanes yesterday "successfully" bombed London's docks, railways and war plants, informed German sources said early today.

One railway station in the center of London received several direct hits, the sources said.

An airbase at Maidstone also was subjected to heavy attack, and four British planes were shot down during the day in dogfights, the Germans claimed.

Coventry, whose factories form part of British airplane industry, was attacked by 500 planes which dropped 30,000 fire bombs and more than 500 tons of high explosives, German military sources reported.

"Ocean of Flames"
Relays of bombers left behind "an ocean of flames" that bathed every one of this city's airplane motor and airplane accessory plants, both large and small, informed Germans declared of their Thursday night attack.

At the same time, the British were admitted to have aimed at Berlin one of their greatest raids of the war but it was reported mostly smothered in an antiaircraft barrage.

The importance of Coventry as a military objective in German eyes was highlighted by the high command's explanation that the Morris, Bristol, Rover and Napier motor works and a general electric plant are situated there.

Flares Seen 120 Miles
The fires that flared from motor factories, airplane accessory plants and huge stores of raw materials and finished products were visible as far as the English channel coast, (Continued on Page 2, Col. 1)

Yugoslav Anti-Aircraft Attacks Foreign Planes

Three Bombers Bombard Bitolj for the Second Time

BITOLJ, Yugoslavia, Nov. 15 (AP)—Yugoslav anti-aircraft guns went into action tonight for the first time against foreign planes when three bombers of unidentified nationality raided Bitolj. Six bombs dropped near the railway station. No casualties were reported.

This was the second time this Yugoslav town near the Greek-Albanian border has been bombed since the start of Italy's invasion of Greece. On Nov. 5 two persons were killed, five were injured and heavy property damage caused when three planes raided the town in broad daylight.

Safe Shipment of Food to Europe Sought by Hoover

Former President Hopes for Reopening of Negotiations

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Nov. 15 (AP)—Former President Herbert Hoover appealed tonight for a reopening of negotiations with warring European nations for guarantees of safe shipment and distribution of food supplies to "five little democracies."

In a speech prepared for the faculty and students of Vassar college and broadcast nationally (CBS), Hoover declared the people of the United States "should be given an opportunity to try to save" the people of Finland, Norway, Holland, Belgium and Central Poland.

Asserting that millions of men, women and children in those countries faced "the stark fact of oncoming famine," the former president said "I will suggest that their lives and infinite suffering can be saved. And I will suggest that we have a moral responsibility."

Importing Necessary
The "only hope" of saving the people of those nations from starvation, Hoover said, was in the importing of food from overseas through the British and German blockades under full safeguards.

He said that France, too, was in need of aid but that he specifically eliminated that nation from his proposals.

Asserting that all five countries had liquid resources outside their own borders which they could pay for food and provide their own ships for transportation, Hoover declared that "I am asking for no gifts, no government appropriations, no use of American ships."

He said that he deliberately withheld discussion of participation in a move to free the starving countries until after the recent national (Continued on Page 2, Col. 2)

Green Predicts CIO May Split Into Two Groups

Thinks One Faction May Be Communist-Controlled under Lewis

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 15 (AP)—President William Green of the American Federation of Labor today predicted a possible split of the CIO into two factions, one of which "may be communist-controlled" under John L. Lewis.

Dismissing any notion that in itself Lewis' promised resignation as president of the Congress of Industrial Organizations would help toward labor peace, Green said Lewis would still control the CIO.

"The difference between the AFL and CIO can easily be washed out but it is a question of men," Green said. "The CIO and AFL conventions about two years ago worked out an agreement that was thrown out by Lewis."

Sees Peaceful Conventions
Green asserted that the AFL convention opening here Monday would be peaceful and in "strange contrast to the rebel (CIO) group opening its convention at the same time in Atlantic City."

Greeks Capture 700 Italians in Continuation of War in Albania

ATHENS, Greece, Nov. 15 (AP)—The capture of 700 Italian soldiers and 10 heavy guns in a continuing Greek advance along the 100-mile Albanian battlefield was reported by the high command early today. Both artillery and air actions were described as "intense."

Greek pilots were declared to have bombed Italian columns in action and to have shot down three Fascist planes against two Greek losses.

Summarizing the position briefly, a government spokesman said the Italians were retreating all along the front, although remarking that "serious battles" were raging.

The Italian guns were understood to have been seized by the Greeks in the recapture of an important hill; the prisoners in the Kalamas river region.

Italians Pushed Back
In the sector near the coast the Greeks declared the Italians had been pushed back up against the Albanian frontier in a retreat described as reaching the proportions of a rout. This is one of the few remaining points where the Italians still are on Greek soil after nineteen days of fighting.

Above this area in the Pindus mountains, where the Greeks are fighting on Albanian soil, advances from the front said Greek mountain fighters had planted their artillery along the few good routes of invasion which had been open to the Fascists.

It was in this rugged border area the Greeks reported two Italian divisions—probably 30,000 men—were cut to shreds, one when it was advancing into Greece and the other when it attempted to come to the aid of the first.

Capture Albanian Heights
On the northern flank, Greeks attacking long-besieged Koritza, ten miles inside Albania, were reported to have captured additional Albanian heights surrounding this Fascist invasion base.

(Border reports reaching Belgrade, Yugoslavia, said the Italians were bringing up heavy reinforcements to the northern sector and that an Italian offensive there appeared imminent.)

Nazi Planes Give London Shower of Explosive Bombs

Start Score of Fires and Bury Many Civilians in Ruins

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Nov. 16 (Saturday)—More than 100 Nazi warplanes dropped explosives and fire bombs on London early today starting scores of fires, leveling apartment buildings and homes, and burying more civilians following the devastating assault on Coventry Thursday night in which 1,000 were killed or injured.

One whole block of apartments caved in. Casualties were believed heavy.

Sweating rescuers toiled in ruins amid falling anti-aircraft shrapnel and bomb explosions.

Worst Night Yet
"This is the worst night yet—at least in numbers," one air raid warden said. "I just counted eighty heavy bombers flying low in formation."

The attack grew more intense near midnight when the raiders found gaps in the low-hanging clouds curtaining the city. Later the clouds again obscured the city, but hundreds of fire bombs, explosives and bright flares whistled down.

Most of the fires were extinguished quickly.

At least eighteen Nazi planes were shot down during the day and another early last night to make a total bag of nineteen, the British said.

Low-hanging rain clouds which had curtailed the city drifted away about midnight, and the roar of explosives increased then. Motorized ground crews sped through bomb blasts to dig in the ruins and control fires.

Aside from the attack on Coventry, other areas likewise were hard hit. A south coast town had its longest air raid of the war; 300 persons were moved from damaged or threatened homes but so far as could be learned there was but a single casualty—a four-year-old child.

Several Towns Bombed
Several towns in the Midlands were bombed.

It was disclosed meanwhile that explosives fell twice recently on the grounds of bomb-scarred Buckingham Palace and that the famed theater royal, Drury Lane, had been damaged.

Summing up the RAF's advantage in aerial battles of the past week the air ministry said:

"This ends a period of seven days in which the enemy's losses in the air have been increasing and our have been remarkably small. x x x

"During these seven days fighter command pilots have destroyed sixty-seven enemy raiders. Only five of our fighters and three pilots have been lost."

Germany's Major Transport System Bombed by R.A.F.

London Reports "Increased Chaos" in Enemy Ranks

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Nov. 15—Britain's bombers were reported officially tonight to have made "increased chaos" of Germany's major transport system in heavy overnight attacks on the vital railway stations of Berlin—the greatest rail center of central Europe.

The raid—launched with what the Germans themselves called the strongest formations ever to strike at the Reich's capital—was declared by the British air ministry to have done such vast damage as to seriously affect not only Germany itself but all the countries overrun by the Nazis.

Hard hit, said the British, were the Schlesischer, Putzitz-Strasse, Lehrter, Anhalter and Stettiner stations—and Stettiner's whole area was left in "a mass of flames."

Bombed, too, according to the ministry's account, were the Berlin power stations at Wilmsdorf and Charlottenburg, the great Tempelhof airfield, a big oil refinery at Hamburg, an airplane factory at Bremen, and twenty-six airdromes in German-held territory.

A British pilot returning home reported seeing a Berlin building—he could not further identify it—go "sky high" in a great explosion.

It was the center of the biggest of several fires leaping up over the city, he added—fires which sent up a glare so brilliant they lighted up the interiors of British bombers thousands of feet aloft.

During the day the air ministry also reported that further reconnaissance had proved beyond question that three Italian battleships were seriously crippled in the aerial torpedo attack Monday night by British naval planes on the Fascist base at Taranto.

There was big gun activity over the channel, too. German heavy artillery bombarded the southeast coast for two hours this morning and drew a heavy British counter-fire.

Witt Resigns in Huff over Naming of Dr. H. A. Millis

Secretary of Labor Board Long a Center of Controversy

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 (AP)—Nathan Witt, secretary of the National Labor Relations Board and a center of the fierce controversy that has raged around that agency, resigned today after President Roosevelt appointed Dr. Harry A. Millis to succeed J. Warren Madden on the board.

Besides Witt, two other board officials also resigned. They are Thomas I. Emerson, associate general counsel, and Alexander B. Hawes, chief administrative examiner.

Dr. Millis, 67-year-old Chicago economist and labor mediator, is regarded as a member of the same school of thought as William M. Leiserson, a board member who has found much to criticize in the board's administrative procedure.

Claiming Witt Unqualified
Leiserson had tried over a year ago to have Secretary Witt discharged, contending that he was unqualified and also questioning his impartiality in labor cases.

Madden's term expired last Aug. 27. When Witt learned of the Millis appointment today, he sent Madden a letter saying: "Since the president has seen fit not to nominate you for another term x x x I have today submitted my resignation."

He added that the work of the board had been a great success; that "union organization and collective bargaining have been extended on a scale never before known in America" and that Madden and (Edwin S.) Smith, the other board member, had won the esteem of "liberals, impartial students and millions of American workmen."

Spain Refuses To Permit Americans To Dispatch News

Friction Develops over Treaty Rights in Tangier and Madrid

By J. C. STARK

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 (AP)—Friction developed between the American and Spanish governments today as the United States reasserted its thirty-four-year-old treaty rights in the international zone of Tangier and Madrid announced a probable ban on operations of all American press correspondents in Spain.

These developments came as the visit of Ramon Serrano Suner, Spanish foreign minister, to Paris and a Berlin announcement that he had been invited to return to Berlin stirred new speculation over possible active moves by Spain to cooperate with the Axis powers.

The state department announced that representations had been made in Madrid over the recent Spanish seizure of full control at Tangier, the strategic international zone in Morocco which commands the Atlantic approach to the strait of Gibraltar.

They were based on treaty rights acquired in the 1906 act of Algeiras which grew out of an international conference to stabilize administration in Morocco. The United States, in becoming a party to the act, disclaimed any obligation or responsibility for its enforcement.

It did not adhere to later conventions adopted by Mediterranean powers which gave Spain certain police rights at Tangier, Spain (Continued on Page 2, Col. 6)

Marshal General Keitel and Marshal Badoglio Meet in Austria near Italian Frontier

By The Associated Press

BERLIN, Nov. 15—The highest officers of the German and Italian military commands held a sudden and unexpected conference today and everywhere the supposition arose that some new military stroke of the greatest importance was afoot.

They met—Marshal General Wilhelm Keitel, chief of the German high command; Marshal Pietro Badoglio of Italy and their respective staffs—at the old Austrian town of Innsbruck near the Italian frontier, and of course they had nothing to say as to what decision had been taken.

Discuss Conduct of War
But the German news agency said that they had had "military discussions about the joint conduct of the war," and another authoritative commentator by plain implication tied the Innsbruck conference directly into recent Axis political discussions. Hitler had met recent weeks with Generalissimo Franco of Spain, among others.

The meeting, said the Dienst Aus Deutschland news service, showed clearly that "military planning by the Axis powers does not lag behind, political activity. . . . Once again demonstrates that prime emphasis is being laid on the military efforts of the Axis in the fight against England."

Also coincidentally, it was officially announced here that Ramon Serrano Suner, the Spanish foreign minister, would arrive in Germany shortly.

Hope To Change Map
This coming visit was seen here as one more step in a plan of power politics which, along with military force, is intended to change the map of Europe, Africa and Asia.

It was assumed that Serrano Suner was coming by way of Paris. His visit will follow very shortly the recently ended conferences between Adolf Hitler and Soviet Premier Vyacheslav Molotov in which it was understood that Germany and Russia agreed on their respective spheres of influence.

Serrano Suner had a talk with Hitler on Sept. 29 and that conference led to speculation that in the eventual lineup which the Axis expects to enforce Spain had been promised Gibraltar.

Later, Hitler and von Ribbentrop met with both Serrano Suner and Franco, and well-informed sources said at the time that their discussion was designed to be a "final step toward the elimination of England from the continent."

Cross Country On Bikes To Join Navy

The Chaney brothers, Gerald and John, enlisted while visiting their mother here.

Big Offensive Planned by Italy And Germany against the Greeks

ROME, Nov. 15—A big offensive in the Mediterranean and new impetus for Italy's campaign in Greece were expected in foreign circles tonight to result from the conference of the chief of the German and Italian high commands.

The meeting between German Marshal General Wilhelm Keitel and Italian Marshal Pietro Badoglio today at Innsbruck was described officially in a communique as "military conversations on joint conduct of the war."

Some usually well-informed sources predicted that pressure would be made on Turkey to allow German troops to spread their occupation from Rumania to the Dardanelles in a drive against the British at Suez and, beyond, in the oil-rich near East.

Cohesive said German troops might aid the Italians against Greece through Yugoslavia or Bulgaria or both.

Little Progress Reported
Little progress has been reported here from Italy's newest front and observers agree that the high command is anxious to speed up operations.

It has not been the policy of the Axis powers to let an offensive lag. It was pointed out, however, that the Greek campaign is only one phase of the Axis war plan and observers said a showdown on Turkey's position may be imminent.

Newspapers indicated that Soviet Russia probably would help put pressure on Turkey to prevent her opposing German plans.

It was considered significant that the military conference came on the heels of talks in Berlin between Soviet Premier Vyacheslav Molotov and Adolf Hitler and those (Continued on Page 2, Col. 1)

Clothing Workers To Ask CIO To Strip John L. Lewis of Power

By TOM COMAN

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Nov. 15 (AP)—John L. Lewis and Sidney Hillman, two of the most potent leaders and co-workers in the CIO until differences over political and labor policies interrupted their team work, met late tonight in a conference which apparently paved the way for a reconciliation—and a peace CIO convention.

For an hour and a half the two men talked in a hotel room, and while neither would make any public comment afterwards, there was reliable information that both men had engaged in a frank discussion of their conflicting views.

The two men who played major parts in founding the CIO five years ago were on opposite sides in the presidential election, Hillman leading the support for president and (Continued on Page 2, Col. 6)

Lewis coming out for Wendell L. Willkie.

It was understood that Lewis and Hillman virtually buried the hatchet now that the election was over, and that possibility of a bitter showdown between their partisans in the CIO convention opening Monday thus were greatly diminished.

Lewis is expected to retire next week as CIO's president, and Hillman, because of his duties as labor member of the national defense commission, will not be a candidate for a CIO vice presidency.

The choice of a new CIO leader is expected to fall on Philip Murray, long one of Lewis's closest associates in the Mine Workers Union and in CIO. Murray also is acceptable to the Hillman partisans, and tonight's conferences may have opened the way to an understanding (Continued on Page 2, Col. 4)

Democratic Group Plans To Oppose Ending Congress

Want Action on Walter-Logan Bill before Adjournment

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15. (P)—A group of Democratic senators threatened today to complicate plans for final adjournment of Congress next week by demanding a showdown on the controversial Walter-Logan bill.

Senators Burke (D-Neb.) and King (D-Tenn.) announced that next Monday they would move for Senate consideration of the bill, which has been pending for more than two years.

They said they expected strong support from Senators Hatch (D-N.M.), McCarran (D-Nev.), Ashurst (D-Ariz.) and other members of the Senate Judiciary Committee who also have been seeking consideration of the measure.

The Walter-Logan bill was passed by the House in June by better than a 2 to 1 vote, despite opposition from administration legislators. In general it would facilitate court review of decisions and regulations of many New Deal agencies, such as the Labor Board and Securities Commission.

Byrd in Opposition

Additional Democratic opposition to adjournment was threatened by Senator Byrd (D-Va.) and others who believe that an overhauling of taxes and appropriations is essential in view of the increased cost of the national defense program.

"I shall vote against adjournment of Congress at this time," Byrd said.

Both Burke and King said Majority Leader Barkley (D-Ky.) had told them that President Roosevelt would veto the Walter-Logan bill if the Senate passed it.

Meanwhile, Democratic leaders in the chamber have been urging their followers to vote for adjournment as a matter of party loyalty. They argue privately that the reelection victory of President Roosevelt demonstrated that there is no need for Congress to remain in session as a check upon White House actions.

Republicans Opposed

Republicans in both the Senate and House have indicated solid opposition to adjournment. Typical of their arguments was this from Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.): "If we're in an emergency that would not allow the president to go more than twelve hours away from Washington, I'd say we're in an emergency that would not allow Congress to be sixty days from Washington or beyond its own recall."

If Congress voted to adjourn it could not meet before next January unless called into special session by the president.

about 120 miles, the high command declared.

The attack spread to surrounding areas of the midlands, it was declared, and a gas works and huge aviation supply dump were hit with "visible effect."

Bombers Attack Dover

In other actions, dive bombers attacking Dover were said to have planted three big bombs on the radio station and buildings and to have sunk three ships and damaged two more.

The three ships were sunk west of Ireland, in the North Sea and off the Scottish coast, while another was damaged off Scotland and a destroyer attacked near Great Yarmouth, these reports said.

In a bomber attack on another convoy of twenty ships some 500 miles west of Ireland, German sources said tonight, a 9,300-ton merchantman and a 16,000-ton vessel were set afire and believed sunk.

Berlin Raids Fail

While the British were acknowledged to have sent "stronger units" than heretofore against Berlin, the Nazis said that a barrage of unprecedented proportions permitted only ten or fifteen raiders to penetrate the capital's defenses and that six of these were shot down inside or just outside the city.

Six others were sent crashing as soon as they crossed the coast, German sources said. All told the British lost twenty to five German aircraft in yesterday's raids and battles.

Amsterdam was reported to have had its longest air raid alarm in weeks with anti-aircraft almost constantly in action, and a few bombs were admitted to have been thrown in Hamburg and Bremen.

Although several buildings were hit in Berlin, the damage was described by the high command as "immaterial."

Yugoslav

claimed responsibility for that attack. A Greek communiqué said Italians made it.

Tonight's attackers came over from the Greek-Yugoslav border, dropped parachute flares over blacked-out Bitoli, then let go with their bombs.

Anti-aircraft guns lifted a tremendous barrage that lasted eight minutes. The planes, following a westerly course, apparently were not hit.

Yugoslav pursuit planes, on guard against repetition of the previous attack, took off but were unable to find the attackers.

DIVINITY STUDENT DRAFT OBJECTORS OFF TO JAIL

Eight divinity students of the Union Theological Seminary who refused to register for selective military service are shown in the 'Black Maria' in New York after they had been sentenced to a year and a day by a federal judge. They had been offered suspended sentences if they would register but refused. The students are: David Leisinger, Wakefield, Mass.; George M. Hauser, Denver, Colo.; Joseph Bevilacqua, Buffalo, N. than 500 planes which dropped 30,000 incendiary bombs and more than 1,000,000 pounds of explosives.

At three o'clock this afternoon, the clock in the main spire of St. Michael's cathedral struck the hour for the first time since a bomb smashed into the building last night.

Peeping Tom Bombed

In Hertford street, the statue popularly believed to represent Peeping Tom, the fellow who peeped at Lady Godiva, still stood as a reminder of this city's yesterday. (Some authorities believe the statue to be an image of St. George, England's patron saint.)

The fourteenth century brownstone cathedral, save for its 303-foot spire, was a jumble of stone and dusty mortar.

Aside from the cathedral and countless homes, these planes were damaged by the raiders. Two hospitals, two churches, public baths, two clubs, a school, a hotel, four public shelters, movie theaters, the police station, the post office and two first aid posts.

In a dash into the still burning sector early tonight this correspondent had to scramble over great piles of brick and broken stone.

Fires Ring Sky

Fires ringed the night sky around us. Gaunt pillars of smoke rose in the midst of confusion, pointing stubbornly at the sky.

The German air armada, I was told, set the town alight shortly after sunset yesterday. The twelve hours that followed were like nothing before, here or in England.

Not until nearly daylight had the relays of planes emptied their bomb racks. They came in numbers which virtually nullified Coventry's anti-aircraft defenses.

The sky flowered with flames. Amid the cannonading of Coventry's anti-aircraft batteries could be heard the rattle of rifles and machine-guns in the hands of men trying to shoot down the illumination flares.

Before the moon set the sky was so thick with smoke that it could not be seen.

People Remain Cheerful

Morrison toured the most heavily damaged parts of Coventry and said he was strongly impressed by the courage and cheerfulness with which the townspeople took the ordeal.

Whole blocks of dwellings and business establishments had been leveled. Coventry is ninety-five miles northwest of London.

Despite efforts to keep the townspeople from flight, traffic on roads leading from the town was in disorder.

Coventry tonight was still at grips with the disaster but the peak of horror had passed. At one place a pitiful group of small children with a small hand pump were squirting water on the blazing gable of their home.

A great corps of physicians and nurses worked throughout the night and day. Many were from nearby towns. Men from the factories turned rescue workers, relieving the crews that had been on duty through the night and the day.

Many of the men dropped from exhaustion.

Firemen reeling with weariness played streams upon the smoldering fires consuming the last bits of timber in the rubble that remained of some of Britain's finest examples of Tudor architecture.

Four persons, already set down officially as "missing," were found in an air raid shelter. So shocked were they by the night of pounding concussion from bombs that they refused to come above ground.

Many Pathetic Scenes

Many of the rescue workers had their own homes to work on. They clawed into the debris, using bare hands in lack of tools, crying out the names of their wives, parents or children and shouting, "we're coming," "we're coming!"

One young man tunneled through debris with his bare hands, to drag out the body of his wife.

Twelve incendiary bombs were said to have hit the Coventry cathedral early in the raid.

"The cathedral will rise again," said the provost. "It will be rebuilt and will be as great a pride to future generations as it has been to the past."

Airplane Factory Closed by Strike

Plant Working on Defense Orders Holds Big Contract

DOWNNEY, Calif., Nov. 15. (P)—The west coast's fourth largest airplane factory was closed by a strike today, the first one called against a plant with aerial defense contracts.

Union employees of the Vultee Aircraft Company, which has on hand $50,000,000 in orders for military aircraft, walked out at 5 a. m. in support of a demand for a wage increase.

Two hours later the company announced shutdown of the huge plant, in which scores of airplanes are in all stages of production. The company said the suspension also affected "more than 20" airplanes ready for delivery tomorrow.

Two conciliators were assigned by Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins to the task of bringing about a settlement.

Vultee has a payroll of 5,200 employees, 3,700 of them in the production department. The CIO United Automobile Workers union, which claims 3,000 of the latter as members, demands that the minimum wage scale be increased from 50 to 75 cents an hour.

Officials of Vultee charged the union with using the company as a lever for the organization of other California airplane companies.

L. H. Michener, regional director of the union, said the company was 2 1/2 hours late yesterday in filing an answer to union demands with a federal conciliator.

Named to the sub-committee were Philip Murray and Reid Robinson, CIO vice presidents, and George Addes of the United Automobile Workers. Lewis said the group was instructed to meet "privately and informally" to consider the charges.

The CIO president also announced the executive board had "considered" two amendments to the CIO constitution. He said the amendments were concerned with the filling of vacancies on the board between conventions and with the setting up of local unions for miscellaneous industries.

Clothing Workers, Green said in an interview.

"I don't think there will be any third national group. I think developments may show some CIO unions may withdraw from that parent body and remain independent or turn to the open door of the AFL."

Green, declining direct comment on the announcement by the executive board of the clothing workers that it would seek immediate negotiations between the AFL and CIO for labor peace, said:

"This gradual sifting may draw a line between the left wing group of Lewis and the right wing of Vice-President Sidney Hillman (a leader of the clothing workers and one of the CIO organizers).

"Out of this may come a Communist - controlled fellow - traveler membership in the CIO under Lewis."

Green said he believed it "would mean nothing" if Lewis kept his pre-election promise to resign the CIO presidency if Wendell Wilkie were not elected president.

Green said he would still remain as president of the United Mine Workers which pays the revenue of the CIO and thus Lewis would be in a position to tell the CIO "unless you do as I want I'll withdraw my financial support."

After all, Lewis draws his $25,000 salary as president of the UMW and not as president of the CIO.

Green closely guarded what plans he may have for labor peace until his opening address to the convention Monday, but he told a meeting of the AFL's Building and Trades Department today.

"We are now at a point where we can bring about a united labor movement in the United States."

He immediately declared he could explain that statement no further until Monday.

the day's losses stood at sixteen Axis planes downed. Subsequent communiqués made the total nineteen bringing the German losses for the week to seventy.

Swiss Group Asks Right To Publish Daily Newspapers

Totalitarians Seek To Spread Their Party Propaganda

BERNE, Switzerland, Nov. 15. (P)—A Swiss totalitarian group delivered today what some newspapers called an "ultimatum" to the government, demanding the right to disseminate party propaganda and the "rehabilitation of persecuted and imprisoned" colleagues.

The group is known as the "Swiss National Movement." It is not strong numerically but neutral for strong observers considered its demands important in view of Switzerland's position, sandwiched as she is between the Axis powers.

Its program roughly parallels the Nazi party program. The members call themselves "soldiers of the Swiss movement of freedom."

Herr Pilet (Dr. Marcel Pilet-Golaz, president of the Swiss Federation) has assured us that our demands will be most carefully considered," said a manifesto issued by the group.

"He particularly promised us permission to print daily and weekly papers in the near future."

Trucking Holding Co. Refused Authority

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15. (P)—The Interstate Commerce Commission denied today an application by the Transport Company of New York, a recently organized holding company, for authority to organize a vast trucking combine in the east.

The company proposed to organize a corporation capitalized at about $25,000,000 to acquire control of approximately thirty companies, including trucking concerns and affiliates.

Among these trucking concerns were Brooks Transportation Company, Richmond, Va.; Davidson Transfer & Storage Company, Baltimore, Md.; Also Hampton Roads Transportation Company, Norfolk, Va.; the Wright Line, Norfolk, Va.; Horton Motor Lines, Charlotte, N. C.; Mundy Motor Lines, Roanoke, Va.

Also Rutherford Freight Lines, Bristol, Va., and Southeastern Motor Lines, Bristol, Va.

In a brief announcement of its action the commission said the application was unanimously denied, but no reasons were given.

Frederick County's Election Costs Down

FREDERICK, Md., Nov. 15. (P)—The Nov. 5 election cost Frederick county $10,633, a figure well under previous election costs, but "more economies can be made," Robert H. Routhahn, president of the board of election supervisors, said today.

The primary last May cost $5,229, he said, and about $4,200 out of $20,000 appropriated for the election will be returned to the county commissioners.

Routhahn said total expenditures in the 1936 election were $19,002 which included a general re-registration and expenditures of $967 for new books. The 1938 primary and election cost $22,903, he added.

Routhahn said $978 was saved this year by delivering books and supplies to registration judges, instead of paying each judge $3 to call for such supplies.

Democrats To Have Big Oyster Roast

BERLIN, Md., Nov. 15. (P)—The Worcester county Democratic party will say "thanks" to voters for the Nov. 5 election victory with an oyster roast Tuesday night.

Party workers in each of the ten county districts together with their families and friends, and members of county volunteer fire companies are especially invited, party leaders said, but the roast is open to the public.

Barrels of Sinepuxent and Chincoteague bay oysters will be rolled out for the occasion, party headquarters said.

Republican Elected Governor of Missouri

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 15. (P)—Republican Forrest C. Donnell was elected governor of Missouri by a margin of 3,504 votes over Lawrence McDaniel, Democrat, on the basis of complete official reports from every precinct in the state, making him the lone Republican in a state administration that otherwise is solidly Democratic.

The vote was: Donnell 911,408; McDaniel 907,904.

St. Louis county today completed its official canvass of the Nov. 5 election, the last in the state to do so.

German Freighter Is Reported Sunk

NEW YORK, Nov. 15. (P)—Shipping circles received reports today that the 2,927-ton German freighter Helgoland, which fled from Barranquilla, Colombia, Oct. 28, had been cornered and sunk in the Caribbean by British warships.

The Hamburg-American Line freighter, built in 1939, was reportedly carrying pilots of Sea, German Air Line in South America, when she slipped out of port at night.

It also was reported to have put to sea to refuel a raider attacking South Atlantic shipping.

FAREWELL TO DOOMED PET

Virtually all hope gone of saving her dog, Brownie, from being put to death, Ruth Fucelli says farewell to her pet at the Brooklyn, N. Y., shelter of the Animal Society after a year-long court battle. The cocker spaniel is charged with having bitten three men. Ruth says he did it thinking to protect her when deliverymen entered her home without warning.

Local Guardsmen among 107 Taking Exams for Service Commissions

Corporal Edward Teter, of 232 North Centre street, and Private Howard H. Dickey, of 218 Washington street, are among 107 enlisted men of the Maryland National Guard undergoing training in Baltimore which is expected to fit them for commissions as second lieutenants.

The contingent being prepared to help bring the First and Fifth Regiments to full strength before mobilization in January, reported at the One Hundred and Fourth Medical Regiment armory for registration last Saturday.

They faced an examining board of regular army and national guard officers on opening day and attended classes this week. The course will be concluded November 20.

Drop in Temperature Predicted for South

By The Associated Press

Chilled by record-breaking November cold that caused widespread crop damage, southerners piled on more blankets tonight (Friday) as forecasters warned of a further drop in temperatures.

In the north, warmer weather was moving eastward from the Great Lakes region. Temperatures still remained below pre-Thanksgiving levels.

A Minnesota state agricultural statistician, Paul K. Kirk, estimated the early cold cost turkey farmers of his state as much as $2,000,000. Reports there indicated one-third of the prospective crop of 2,900,000 birds was lost.

Texas farmers suffered materially from the record cold, too. The earliest killing frost in two decades damaged tomato, bean, squash and pepper crops in the lower Rio Grande valley.

Witt Resigns

the developments probably would be followed by a general shake-up of the board's lesser officials. Leiserson is understood to believe there should be a "housecleaning."

Saposs Recently Dismissed

Another center of controversy, Dr. David Saposs, head of the board's economic research division, was dismissed recently after Congress cut off funds for his work. Both he and Witt had been criticized for alleged radical leanings, a charge that both denied.

Some labor men were of the opinion that the nomination of Mills might also tend to facilitate an amalgamation of the CIO and the AFL.

Although Madden was not reappointed to the board, President Roosevelt nominated him to be a judge of the United States court of claims. In that post he would receive $12,500 a year, as against his previous salary of $10,000.

Willkie Mentioned for University Presidency

RUTLAND, Vt., Nov. 15. (P)—Newman Chaffee, acting president of the University of Vermont, said tonight that the name of Wendell Willkie, defeated Republican presidential candidate, was one of several that had been suggested for the university presidency but that no offer had been made.

Chaffee, who was named acting president last week to fill the vacancy caused by the recent death of Guy W. Bailey, said the next meeting of the board of trustees would take up the matter.

Court of Appeals Hears Arguments In Three Cases

Income and Merit Systems Are Involved in Two of the Suits

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 15. (P)—Maryland's Court of Appeals heard arguments in three important cases today before adjourning until December 17.

Two cases involved the income and merit system laws and the third the question of whether the entire rolling stock of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company is exempt from county and Baltimore city taxation.

In the case of Mrs. Clara S. Williams vs. State Comptroller J. Millard Tawes, the court was asked to decide whether income received from a foreign fiduciary should be taxed as investment income, ordinary income or whether it should be taxed at all.

Case Considered Important

The merit system case, brought by William V. Ahlgren, former state employe, against R. Chester Cromwell, state superintendent of buildings and grounds, presented the question of whether employes of the superintendent are in the merit system.

The attorney general's representatives, who argued that Ahlgren's job was not in the classified service, consider the case important. The court's opinion is expected to shed light on the governor's power to place jobs within the merit system and otherwise interpret the law.

The attorney general's representatives likewise consider the income tax case vital, since it also involves the right of taxpayers to invoke the declaratory judgment act to present their individual income tax problems directly to the court without following the statutory procedure prescribed by the income law.

On the other hand, if the court should rule that a portion of the B. and O.'s rolling stock is subject to county and municipal taxation, it would mean that the railroad would have to pay a considerable amount in taxes for the years since 1934.

Proceedings Held Proper

Attorneys for Mrs. Williams, of Talbot county, appealed an Anne Arundel County Circuit Court opinion unholding constitutionality of the fiduciary estates section of the state income tax law.

Although Mrs. Williams' share of an estate administered in Pennsylvania was $4,170, she received only $3,572. The remainder sum was deducted by the trustee for its commission and for certain taxes in Pennsylvania.

Judge Ridgely P. Melvin ruled that proceedings under the declaratory judgment act were proper. He held that the $3,753 received by Mrs. Williams should be taxed as investment income. However, he said the $597 of her share, which she did not actually receive, was tax exempt.

Tawes filed a cross-appeal contending the lower court erred in permitting the action under the Declaratory Judgment act and in holding that the tax should be computed only upon the actual income received from the foreign fiduciary.

John L. Lewis Says More Thanksgiving Days Are Needed

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Nov. 15. (P)—John L. Lewis, declaring that "what we need is more Thanksgiving days," said today members of the United Mine Workers of America would observe the Thanksgiving date set by state governors.

Several states — among them Pennsylvania — will observe the day on November 28, a week later than the date designated by President Roosevelt.

British Bombers Attack Hamburg

BERLIN, Nov. 16. (Saturday)—(P)—Waves of British bombers attacked Hamburg, Germany's great port, during the night but a majority of them were unable to reach the city proper or its harbors DNB, German official news agency, reported early today.

The news agency said both anti-aircraft batteries and night-fighter German pursuit planes broke up the apparent British effort to carry out a mass raid on the port city. The raiders swept in from the sea, DNB said, only to run into such a fierce barrage that most of them turned back.

A "comparatively small" number of bombs was dropped over Hamburg, but no military or war-essential objectives were hit, the news agency asserted.

The only place hit, it said, was a large hospital where it asserted a number of persons were killed and injured.

Two British raiders were declared downed in flames.

Dies Says Nation Is Facing Wave of Sabotage

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 15. (P)—Rep. Martin Dies, chairman of the Congressional Committee for Investigation of un-American Activities, asserted tonight that the nation is facing a wave of sabotage "unless swift action is taken to expose saboteurs in defense industries."

Here to address a sales managers' club, Dies declared that his committee will soon "launch an expose of German subversive work that will rock the nation."

Japs Bomb Chinese

NEW YORK, Nov. 15. (P)—A Domei Japanese news agency broadcast said the Japanese army force heavily bombed Chinese army headquarters and other military establishments today near Shanghai and Chongling in southwestern Kwangsi province.

IT CAN BE A LIABILITY
IN MANY cases a declarer likes to have a singleton of some suit in his own hand or the dummy, as it is often an asset to one extent or another. There are times, however, when it can be a liability. One of the chief among these is the case of a No Trump declarer who possesses only a singleton of the dummy's suit, or the dummy has only a singleton of his suit. One more card would afford an extra chance to try a finesse, and also would aid the probability of the suit establishing, since it would cut down by one the number of cards held by the declarer.

There is nothing particularly terrible about the bidding of this hand in a rubber game, but it certainly illustrates a point clearly.

—the value of having a couple of cards of your partner's suit when you get into a game at No Trumps. There are many fine players who would not think of forcing with a No Trumps on South's hand, at would prefer to respond to the heart call with one of the other suits, depending upon which method the pair was using. They probably would wind up in a game at No Trumps anyway, but the effort to avoid trouble would have been made.

West led the club 3 to the Q and K. Followed then the heart K, spade Q, heart A and the heart J, in an effort to set up some heart tricks. When East showed out, South knew the jig was up. West won that trick with the Q and shifted to the diamond 9 to the A. East returned his club 7 to the J, and the contract was set then by the club A and heart 10. If South had held the heart 2 instead of West, and one less diamond, he could have taken a winning finesse in the dummy's suit and also could have established a low card trick in it, to make his contract.

Your Week-End Lesson

Do you understand clearly the way that the three principal types of lead-throwing end plays may be combined in a single hand? Can you set up examples combining any two of them, and one which involves all three general kinds in one hand?

On Your Shoulders

That's Where Responsibility Lies If You'd Be Belle of Ball

Lucy Monroe
A Shoulder Shrug For Beauty

By BETTY CLARKE
AP Feature Service Writer

If you're going dancing during the winter holiday season, you probably will be showing your shoulders in one of the slinky, low-cut frocks. Or, perhaps you'll merely be revealing your beauty with a sheer yoke-effect.

Either way you'll want to be shoulder perfect.

So does Lucy Monroe, the concert singer, who likes to sing in clothes quite décolleté. She shoulders the responsibility with this daily beauty routine.

Scrubbing First

First, regular scrubbing with a long-handled bath brush. She recommends lots of soap. The process stimulates the skin and helps take care of blemishes. This also is a good way to help remove the last vestiges of tan.

If summer tan remains in the form of discoloration, Miss Monroe recommends a mild bleaching cream. After that, she advises you to massage shoulders, neck and back with tissue cream to protect the skin from chapping. This also helps prevent excessive dryness and particularly promotes that soft, white look that makes pretty shoulders lovelier. It's best, she thinks, to get some help on the massaging.

The Home Stretch

The third "must" in this shoulder scheme of beauty building is exercise. It takes a series to fill out those hollows at the base of the neck and flatten out wings on your shoulders, Lucy Monroe believes.

Here's one: Lie flat on the floor, pressing the shoulders, backbone and legs to the floor while your arms remain at your sides. Now, stretch your right side as hard as you can but keep your back tight against the floor. Alternate right and left five times. This one has better results if done slowly.

Use Your Head

Next try this one: Bend your head forward, resting it on your chest. Roll your head slowly to the left three times, going as far as you can. Then alternate. Your throat muscles should become more supple and the hollows at the base of the neck begin to disappear.

And here's an easy one that's who was a patient at Allegheny hospital, has returned home.

Isaac Canorsdale, 1408 Oldtown road, is confined to his home with a broken leg.

Miss Louise Hunter Early has returned to Lynchburg, Va., after spending several weeks as the guest of Miss Elizabeth Watkins, 123 Race street.

City Detective and Mrs. B. Frank Gaffney, 870 Sperry terrace, have returned from Knoxville, Tenn., where they visited their son, James, a student at the University of Tennessee.

'Youngsters Know Most about Love,' Helen Hayes Tells Her Director, 30

By HERMAN R. ALLEN
AP Feature Service Writer

NEW YORK—Helen Hayes is doing what she'd had an itch to do for a long time. She's putting on her own radio show.

"I've often thought I'd like to do this," she said between rehearsals of "Love from a Stranger." "because there are so many things you can do on the air that you can't do on the stage."

"For instance, to pick an obvious thing, you can put a sandstorm on the air—just by sounds and dialogue—but you just can't put a sandstorm on the stage."

"Of course, radio is much harder in some ways. You have to make people understand what is happening just by telling them about it. That's a challenge that I enjoy meeting."

"Radio is pantomime in reverse. In radio you have to make people visualize the scene with language. In pantomime you have to make them translate motions and props into language."

Miss Hayes has been on the radio often, but this is the first show she has had for herself.

"The idea had been buzzing around in my head for a long time," she said. "There are so many things I want to do. Some of them are old stand-bys, but I think I can do something different with them. Others are newer plays, and some will be original for this show. Robert Sherwood has promised to do one for me, and so have several others."

men—a cheer when told they are to be it her show.

Although she's had years on the stage at columns of critical praise, Miss Hayes listens to the director, 30-year-old Adrian Samish, just as humbly as do the others, and never puts up a argument.

Thirty's pretty young for a director, though, and Miss Hayes jibes Samish about it once in a while.

COURT'S CUSTODY

The Law Takes Its Course—Which Includes One of the Strangest Rides Mr. Claiborne Ever Had

By MARY DRAKE

It was really a shame it had to happen, with young Teddy just getting started up in the business

"Just give me some coffee, Teddy" world and casting those speculative glances toward Betty Carver, his assistant and staunchest aid, but Clint—Bailliff Henry Clint of Judge Kammer's court—could see no way out. He served the summons to young Teddy Huntington.

"What's all this, Hank?" Teddy grinned, throwing the summons down next to the cash register without even looking at it and polishing the long counter of the spotless hamburger bar with a clean towel. "What can I do for you this morning? Dog Wagon Special—on the house?" Clint's mouth watered slightly at mention of one of the succulent Dog Wagon numbers, but he jerked his mind back to his sworn duty with an effort. He picked up the summons and presented it again.

This time Teddy wiped his hands on a towel back of the counter and inspected the document. He whistled slowly.

"This isn't your idea of a clever rib, is it, Hank?" Teddy demanded after a short pause. "Because if it is—you're a lot more gruesome than I ever suspected!"

Betty Carver came in just then and greeted the two men brightly from the door of the imitation dining car. She felt the restraint in the air. She took the summons for Teddy from his hands and read it.

"I thought that old Paine Claiborne would bring you up in court," she said, frowning at young Teddy. "The minute I found out that you'd pushed one of the Dog Wagon specials into his sour puss—trimmings and all!"

"Just because my three Dog Wagons are running his road houses out of business is no reason for him to come in here and raise Cain with me!" Teddy defended hotly. "Losing a little sideline business wouldn't nick his bank account!"

The bailiff cleared his throat uncomfortably. "Just give me some coffee, Teddy," he suggested, and then added paternally, "Claiborne is a power in this town, son, don't forget that! You sort of put his nose out of joint by starting on a shoeing and undermining one of his moulty enterprises. And then that hamburger in the face!"

The three of them had to laugh at that.

Clint gulped his coffee and got off the stool.

"That's for 10 tomorrow morning,"

Teddy, he warned, as he went out the door.

A sober Betty looked at a glum Teddy when they were once more alone.

"I think you're going to get an awful sap for a husband, kid!" Teddy told her.

Betty put her hand on his and smiled. "Not a sap—just impulsive!" she corrected, with all the understanding in the world. "But I like that way!"

Paine Claiborne's butler answered the summons of the front doorbell at precisely 9 the following morning. Outside he discovered the rather shabby, well-fed presence of Bailiff Henry Clint.

"Judge Kammer sent me over to see that Mr. Claiborne remembered about the date he has for court this morning and to lend him any assistance possible," he told the servant.

From somewhere inside a crusty voice answered.

"I wouldn't forget such a thing after going to all the trouble of lodging a charge against that young whippersnapper!" Claiborne grumbled, coming to the entrance hall and grabbing his hat out of the butler's hand. "Or had you heard the details of the case?" he demanded suspiciously.

"Me? I didn't hear a thing!" Clint evaded. He looked at the black limousine parked just in front of his own ramshackle car and chuckled in sympathy. "Good thing I came along, Mr. Claiborne. You got two flat tires on your car!"

"Thunderation!" Claiborne stormed as he came out and verified the report. "I'll have to ride in your old car, bailiff!"

Clint held the door open for him and then went around and climbed into the driver's seat.

The ancient equipage started with a wheeze, but it got out of the driveway without breaking down.

"Yes, sir! Lucky thing I called for you, Mr. Claiborne," Clint chatted amiably as they rattled along. "Taxis are hard to find 'way out here—and was you to miss court Judge Kammer'd have to drop the case. Lack of prosecution, section 16D!"

"Can't you hurry this thing, my man?" Claiborne complained, leaning forward as if to urge the car onward. "We've a scant half-hour to make our appearance."

Clint grinned. "I can't guarantee this car, but I can try, Mr. Claiborne," he acquiesced, stepping all the way down on the accelerator.

"We like to accommodate folks in the court's custody at all times!" A large, ominous clanking sound came from the venerable motor and steam commenced whistling from beneath the cracked radiator cap.

Clint's vehicle suddenly became silent, heaved to a stop and stood there steaming.

"I guess that's that, Mr. Claiborne."

The law will have to take its own course, I expect."

Clint shrugged. "Not a taxi or a telephone within two miles of here." He shut his ears to Paine Claiborne's language.

In a way it was fun. Anyway, he'd pay his young son plenty for ruining the jalopy—and he could drive his own car about his business in the morning with a clear conscience! — Distributed by United Feature Syndicate.

Prune Fill-Ins

Have you heard of "food fill-ins"? They are so-called because they are usually used to fill up space on a cocktail party tray, or on a luncheon or buffet table. They also help fill out wrinkles in a certain part of the anatomy. One food that does a good job at this is prunes. To prepare prune fill-ins steam the dried fruit about 20 minutes (long enough to soften), remove the pits and fill with nuts, pineapple gems, dried fruit or a mixed filling.

Tricky Plays for Thanksgiving Turkey

By LOUISE BENNETT WEAVER
AP Feature Service Writer

Thanksgiving dinner this year should go All-American from mulled cider "kick-off" to pumpkin pie at the final whistle. Excitement also will run higher if you introduce tricky plays by new and old stars in the food field.

A pronounced patriotic motif may be given to the festive proceedings by teaming up flag and star designs with the usual

Thanksgiving "extras." Let star-shaped crutons or tiny sandwiches accompany the hot or cold fruit juices, crab or oyster cocktail, tomato or mushroom broth, oyster bisque or other favorite start-off for the feast. Cheese pastry stars may be cut out and passed along with salads.

Cranberry or other red jelly stars brighten up appetizers, salads, the turkey or duck platter (or your preferred meat). Spiced beets atop sliced glazed oranges or browned peaches give a perky touch to salads or fowl dishes. Beet stars also may be sprinkled over creamed cauliflower and sliced carrots, served together, or over buttered broccoli or savory brussels sprouts.

A tray of relishes grouped together for one passing helps out serving. You can arrange celery curls with crisp radishes and spiced apricots. Ripe olives, celery sticks and spiced cherries also make a tasty trio.

Now let's talk turkey. If you want your bird extra well equipped with white meat, select a fowl with a broad, wide, plump chest and see that the legs are rather short and well rounded. Such turkeys usually are available, so ask about them.

If you feel you simply must alter the stuffing go about it cautiously so you won't impair that old-fashioned flavor. You could add either a cup of chopped roasted peanuts, oysters, dried apples and raisins, mushrooms, or chestnuts to your regular stuffing. Cornbread also steps up flavor and richness.

ROAST STUFFED SMOKED TURKEY

Remove skin of a smoked turkey. Fill opening in foot with fruit, celery, or chestnut dressing. Place turkey in roaster, the bottom of which should contain 2 cups of chicken broth. Roast 40 minutes in a moderate oven, basting often.

so you might care to make the stuffing using equal amounts of white and cornbread.

Please give the carver a break by having extra stuffing and gravy on hand for the second round. Fill a buttered ring mold with stuffing and bake it 20 minutes in a pan of hot water in a moderate oven. Keep covered and hot until needed, then unmold onto a shallow dish and center with a bowl of gravy.

Cranberries can be used in many ways so why not have a change by serving cranberry juice cocktail or jellied berries, white grapes and celery in salad? And cranberry sherbet is coming to the front as a tart accompaniment for turkey or other fowl. These sprightly grape berries are delightful when placed in cobbler, pastry roll, baked pudding and steamed confections. Cranberry hard sauce is grand with steamed fruit pudding.

For a hungry defense play have individual date puddings topped off by tiny pumpkins. Fashion the pumpkins from orange-flavored and tinted hard sauce. Stick in green gum string stems.

A fruit-plus tray solves the dessert problem easily. Select your choicest tray or flat silver basket, center it with fresh fruits, stick in sugar cookie stars and date bars and then fill all around with spiced or sugared nuts, stuffed dates and prunes, cracked nuts, candy corn, candied fruit strings and tiny pop corn balls.

Date Cookies Good To Have on Hand

Cookies are grand to have on hand at all times. Thus this recipe for date cookies guaranteed to make the mouth water:

Ingredients: One package pitted dates, three cups sifted flour, one and a half cups brown sugar, one cup water, one-half cup chopped nuts, one-half cup butter, two eggs, three teaspoons baking powder, salt, vanilla and sugar. Then add the eggs, one at a time, and the nuts. Next add the flour with baking powder alternately with the date paste. Finally, drop by teaspoonfuls on greased baking sheets and bake in hot oven for twelve to fifteen minutes.

Here is a Recipe For Broiled Turkey

Any meat, fowl or fish, ever turkey, may be used for broiler meals. For your broiled turkey, select a young bird weighing about eight or ten pounds, dressed. Quarter turkey and brush cut sides with butter, salt and pepper.

Place turkey in a broiler pan on second shelf from the bottom of the oven and turn control to broiler position. Broil for thirty minutes, then turn pieces or turkey and brush skin sides with butter, salt and pepper, and broil thirty minutes more. Next turn turkey, skin sides down, turn off heat and cook on stored heat in oven for thirty minutes.

By this time the turkey should be ready to slice and serve with gravy.

Bean Casserole

This economical but satisfying dish calls for two cups dry lima or navy beans, one pound diced ham, two cups tomatoes, one cup diced onions, one and a half teaspoons salt, one teaspoon dry mustard, two teaspoons brown sugar and one-eighth teaspoon pepper.

Soak beans over-night and partially cook. Then combine ham, tomatoes, onions and seasonings. Next alternate layers of beans with ham mixture in greased baking dish and bake covered in moderate oven for about three hours.

Baked Bean Sandwich

Here is a sandwich which is a whole meal in itself, especially when served with a glass of milk and hot apple sauce. Toast and butter two slices of bread. Then pile one slice with hot baked beans, cover it with the second slice and pile on more beans. Serve hot. If desired, two strips of crisp bacon may be placed between and on top of the sandwich stack. Also, to dress the sandwich up even more, a seasoned tomato sauce can be poured over the top.

Stuffed Chops

Try this for your next baked dinner: Select pork chops (rib) very thick—two inches if you can get them. Have the butcher make slits or "pockets" in each and fill with any favorite stuffing. Regular highly seasoned bread or corn or rice will do. Bake an hour in a moderate oven. Baste several times.

School Lunch Hints

Carefully-packed boxes make school lunches more wholesome and appetizing. Half-pint fruit jars are excellent containers for salads, puddings and fruit sauces. The food may be eaten right out of the jars.

When Glasses Stick

If two glasses become stuck together, set them in warm water and pour cold water into the upper one. Twist slightly and usually they unloosen.

Are Delicious

Crusty rolls, split, buttered and served piping hot are delicious for luncheon or dinner. Neither butter nor bread and butter plates need be included in the service.

Delicious Topper

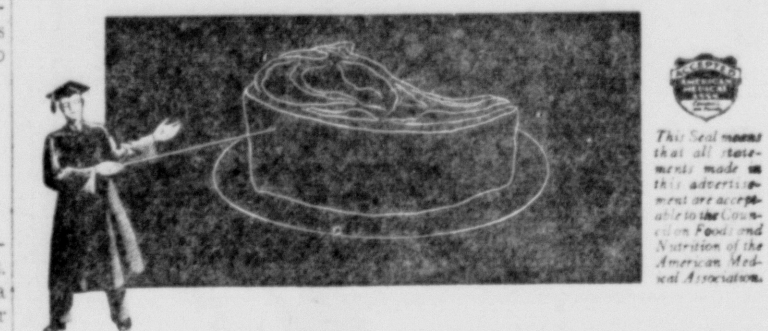

Orange sauce makes a delicious topper for fresh gingerbread. For extra goodness sprinkle with a few coarsely broken nuts.

Those Cooking Spots

If fruits or sauces boil up and spatter the wall behind the stove, wash off as quickly as possible with a cloth wrung out in lukewarm water. If the spots are stubborn, rub the damp cloth in soda, apply to the spots and rinse off with a clean damp cloth.

How Smart Are You About MEAT?

A modern health quiz about a modern food

1. What big health news about meat was recently discovered by scientists?
2. If you were picking the most digestible meat to serve a family with growing children, which of the following would you choose? Beef ☐ Pork ☐ Lamb ☐ Veal ☐
3. Has any civilized person ever lived exclusively on meat? Why?
4. Why is it now less of a hardship to go on a reducing diet?
5. When is a protein complete?
6. In which of the following conditions do you think meat could be included as an important part of the diet? Bright's disease ☐ High blood pressure ☐ Tuberculosis ☐ Arthritis ☐ Anemia ☐
7. This is easy for mothers. How old are babies ordinarily before they get meat in the diet?
8. A porterhouse steak contains more health elements than stewing beef. Is this statement True ☐ False ☐

Now look at the answers

1. The big health news is the discovery that meat is especially rich in certain vitamins—particularly the Vitamin B group, including Vitamin B-1 (thiamine).
2. You could choose any one of them and not go wrong—because, as tests prove, all meats are easily and equally well digested.
3. Yes—the explorer-scientist, Stefansson and his colleague, Anderson, lived exclusively and healthily on meat for one year under strict scientific observation. Their purpose was to discover once and for all the old wives' tale of the harmful effect of "too much meat."
4. Because the modern reducing diets prescribed by physicians allow a liberal amount of lean meat, you can lose weight without developing that haggard look and "always-hungry" feeling. Lean meat helps keep up your strength and satisfies you.
5. Scientists call a protein "complete" when it contains the ten essential amino acids. Meat is one of the foods that contains in liberal amounts all of these body building essentials which truly make proteins the "building blocks of the body."
6. If you guessed for only anemia, you are only one-fifth right. Diets liberal in meat are now recommended by modern physicians for patients with, not one, but any of these ailments.
7. Oftentimes meat soup is prescribed by child specialists as early as the first month and the baby gets bacon and other meats before the end of the first year.
8. The statement is false. It is a fallacy among many housewives that the expensive cuts are more nourishing. The fact is that the less known cuts, not only of beef, but of lamb, pork and veal are just as nutritious as the fancier ones, often even richer in flavor.

AMERICAN MEAT INSTITUTE, Chicago

Good News About Stews

Nothing stretches the flavor of meat so much as stew, whether it's beef, lamb or veal. Here are some of the secrets:

1. Cut meat in cubes of uniform thickness. 2. Keep it colorful, rather than "pink," by browning the meat in a skillet beforehand. 3. Cook gently and keep covered while cooking. 4. Give it new color and flavor interest by using vegetables other than carrots, potatoes and onions—for example, green beans, lima and celery. For added interest, slice the vegetables in strips. 5. Season it properly. For example, add a few whole cloves or a bay leaf. Your meat man will help you select the proper "stew meat."

BY MARIE BLIZARD

CHAPTER TWENTY-SIX

"WHAT'S THE matter with Vance?" Kit asked Widmer when they had found a table by themselves in the store.

"I dunno. But I'm afraid it is something serious. That's why I ran after you. I figured that you're a good friend of his and you might know. He's a good friend of mine, too. I thought maybe if he was in a jam—"

"Where is he?" she asked. A kind of sick premonition attacked her.

"That's what I don't know. It's kind of queer it seems to me. He's done something that he never did before. He was supposed to be M. C. at the opening of our new station last night and he didn't show up. Crayley was there and he pinch hit for him. Not a word from him. He has a show to do Sunday and the Braddock fight Tuesday. I went up to his place today and his servant said he hadn't heard from him since he left Monday."

Kit said, "Let me think a minute."

"I don't know as I ought to tell you this, Miss O'Reilly, but Gregory told him if he ever . . . well, if he ever blew again, he'd keep him off the air, and with the big fight coming and all, I thought—"

"But Gregory is in London. Maybe he won't know about it."

"Nobody here would squeal on Healey. He's too regular. But suppose he ain't here by Tuesday and Gregory catches the fight on short wave?"

Kit picked up her bag. She said, "Thanks, Mr. Widmer, for telling me. Don't let anyone else know, and I promise you that I'll have Vance here by Sunday."

Kit's gray-and-white striped luggage was in her path when she opened the door of her apartment. Her topcoat and light evening wrap were folded over a chair in the foyer.

Fran's voice greeted her quietly. "You'll have to hurry, Kit. Jerry will be here very soon. We've packed for you, drawn your bath and laid out your clothes for dinner."

Kit came into the room. "I'm not going with Jerry."

She threw her hat and bag on a chair and hurried to her writing desk, where she flung open the drawers, scattering the contents wildly.

"Looking for something?"

"No, darling. I'm practicing a new act. Didn't we have a New Haven timetable around here some place?"

"I thought you were going on Foster's boat. And, anyway, it's New London, not New Haven, unless they're having the races there this year."

"I'm not going to the races."

"Oh, yes you are!" Fran said calmly.

Kit sighed with exasperation and turned around to her. "You hear me, Fran. I've got to go to New Haven. You tell Jerry . . . tell him anything you can think of. And now ring up Grand Central and find out what time the next train leaves."

The other girl didn't move. "Mind if I ask why the change of plans?"

Kit said, "It's Vance."

"What about Vance?"

"He's disappeared. I'm going to try to find him."

"What makes you think you'll find him in New Haven? School's been out since Wednesday."

"Yes, I know. But he hasn't been seen around here since Sunday. Larry Widmer stopped me when I was leaving a few minutes ago and said Vance blew a show last night. He's been to all Vance's haunts and can't find him."

"And so our little girl scout thinks she'll find him in New Haven?"

"I might," Kit said shortly. "That's where he went, isn't it? Well, that's probably where he's still celebrating. Vance isn't like—well, Vance simply can't celebrate. He doesn't know how. He must still be up there somewhere with some cronies he's picked up."

"Suppose he is. What would you do about it?"

"I don't know!" Kit's voice went up hysterically. "But I'd find him somewhere. In some place like Luigi's or—"

"The trains run on the hour, so cool off. Let's talk this over."

"I don't want to talk. I want to do something."

"Shhhh! Not so loud! Has anybody appointed you to be Vance's guardian angel?"

Kit shook her head slowly. "No, it's strictly unofficial. Maybe it's a habit, but I don't know how to break it."

Fran drew her down to a place beside her on the lounge and spoke softly. "Kit, honey, suppose you think like a grown-up for a change. Suppose we do a little talking before we do any more foolish doing."

Kit shook Fran's hand off impatiently. "We're just wasting time. You don't understand, Fran. Vance is in trouble."

"And YOU are going to be in trouble, Miss O'Reilly. You've got a date with Jerry and it's just as important for you to keep your date as it is for Vance to keep his."

"A date to go to the crew races. How can you prattle about social affairs when a man's career is at stake?"

"Your own career may be at stake. Don't be a fool, Kit. Look at things the way they really are. Don't try to evade all the issues. You know darn well that you owe a lot to Jerry Sembler."

Kit bit her lips to keep from saying angry things.

"It would be rude, to say the least, for you to hang Jerry up without a decent explanation. And could you make one?"

Kit drew herself up. "I've never been intentionally rude to anyone and—"

"Okay! Let's keep the record clean. And consider my last question. Could you tell Jerry that you had rushed off to find Vance?"

"No—no."

"It's had enough to run after one man and leave the other man holding the bag when the other man is just another beau. But when the other man happens to be the guy who holds your career in the palm of his hand—" Fran shrugged her shoulders expressively.

Kit said coldly, "Do you mean to insinuate that I am nice to Jerry because he can help me professionally?"

"I wouldn't insinuate for the devil himself. I'm saying plain words that make sense—I hope. What I'm trying to say is that Jerry likes you and Jerry is a lot more important to you than you know BECAUSE HE LIKES YOU!"

"It's as plain as the nose on your face that Jerry has done things for personal reasons."

"Fran! Kit's face was a study in shocked surprise.

"Oh, for Pete's sake, Kit, don't give me that. You've been around enough to know that when a man likes a girl he can do a lot for her. And why shouldn't he? Why shouldn't Jerry? You're not married. He likes you. He does things for you that he probably wouldn't if—"

"Oh, Fran, you've got the wrong picture. Professionally and socially we are together most of the time, but one hasn't anything to do with the other. And Jerry is a nice, sweet person who asks for nothing."

"Well, then play your cards right way. Be as nice to him. Be courteous and considerate—to-night. If you walk out on him now, he might be hurt. And when a man's hurt, he doesn't have a good cry and come back the next day for more the way a girl does."

Kit listened silently.

Fran went on: "When he gets through being hurt, he gets to being mad. After that he cools off to the freezing point and discovers there isn't much fun in doing favors for the gal who made him mad. So, missy, off to your bath and I'll entertain him with songs, dances and witty sayings until you're dressed."

Kit repeated quietly, "I'm going to New Haven."

around the lips and roughness of the skin.

These are something like the disease called pellagra—a deficiency disease that results from living on a diet of preserved foods—salt pork, molasses, corn pone, etc.—a common winter diet in the south. The element in the Vitamin B factor that prevents pellagra is nicotinic acid. Riboflavin deficiency resembles pellagra.

What Research Has Shown

B3, B4, B5, and B6 deficiency will cause certain animal diseases but no analogy is found in man. B3 is necessary for weight gains in pigeons. B4 prevents a form of paralysis in rats; B5 is necessary for normal nutrition in pigeons. B6 is known as the rat dermatitis factor. Vitamin W is part of the B factor and acts to stimulate riboflavin. Vitamin V is another growth-stimulating factor.

The latest development of Vitamin B research is that one part of the complex when absent in the diet, results in premature graying of the hair. These experiments have been made on rats and have not been confirmed in man.

Questions and Answers

A. E. Champlain, Ill.—"Will sodium phosphate thin the blood and cause one to become anemic?"

Answer—No! The action of sodium phosphate is that of a simple saline cathartic.

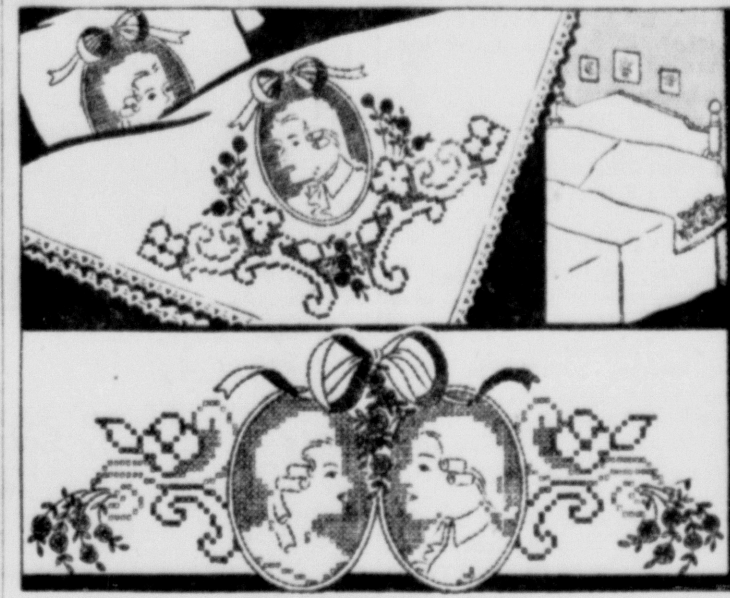

L. L.—"What is the cause of burning feet at night; generally more so under the feet?"

Answer—This may be due to ringworm infection or it may be due to having had chilblains, and it may be due to change in the arteries. The treatment in all cases is definite.

P.—"Please discuss the relative merits of castor oil and calomel as a cathartic."

Answer—Castor oil cleans out the lower bowel very thoroughly and usually tends to a period of constipation afterwards. It is said, as a laxative, it knows when to stop. It is harmless except that it is habit-forming in that it eventually causes the bowel to be constipated. Calomel is a good cathartic because it cleans out the upper intestine also, but it also tends to require larger dosage to work. The great advantage

Lack of Vitamin B in Diet Will Cause Deficiency Diseases, Medicos Aver

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

The vitamins in the food are necessary for health. How they act is a mystery, but we know that if they are left out of the diet certain symptoms occur. Vitamin B is the one that was discovered in the Orient where in other days a form of paralysis, called beri-beri, was very prevalent. It was found the victims of beri-beri lived exclusively on a rice diet and they polished their rice—removed the outer shell by a form of milling.

When whole rice was substituted the beri-beri did not occur, and it was found that the use of whole rice would cure beri-beri.

Eight or Ten Elements

As chemical research in the vitamins went on, it was found that Vitamin B was not one substance but several. It was found in nature in cereals and yeast and as now understood, there are eight or ten elements in the Vitamin B factor—Vitamin B1, B2, B4, B5, B6, Vitamins H, W and U.

B1 is chemically thiamine chloride. There is quite a fad just now in its use. It will undoubtedly cure certain forms of paralysis. The paralysis that occurs in heavy drinkers called "alcoholic neuritis" is undoubtedly due to lack of the vitamins in the diet. It is used for many conditions of general debility, and, in fact, even used to encourage the growth of plants.

B2 is chemically riboflavin. It has no influence on paralysis, but a peculiar condition results from its absence in the diet, consisting of soreness of the tongue, fissures

Better Electrical Service Will Be Given in Garrett

Monongahela System Divides Oakland Operating Area into Two Parts

OAKLAND, Nov. 15 — Because of large increases in the number of electric customers in this territory in recent years, as well as the company's desire to provide additional and better service for all users of electricity, the Monongahela System's Oakland operating area on Nov. 1, was divided into two parts, it was announced this week. One section embraces Garrett county and portions of Mineral and Grant counties in West Virginia, and the other includes Preston county, W. Va., operations.

Key Is In Charge

Frank C. Key, who has been district manager of the Oakland territory for the past five years, will continue as head of the Monongahela System operations in this section, while John O. Collins, a line foreman at Kingwood, has been made manager of the Preston county territory. William E. "Bill" Camp, of the company's operating forces, succeeds Collins as line foreman.

The hundreds of new customers which have been taken on the lines in the last few years through increased activity in rural extensions made necessary the creation of a new area and the addition of personnel. With the new set-up, customers will not only receive better, more reliable service, but will more easily have access to the many new services and facilities which the company is constantly making available to users of its current. It was stated by company officials.

Officials Are Veterans

Both Key and Collins are Monongahela System veteran employees with more than twenty years service each. Key was first employed in 1917 as assistant superintendent of the Elkins power plant, then operated by the Monongahela System predecessor in that area. He served as district superintendent at Grafton for several years but has been in Oakland since 1935.

Collins came with the Monongahela System's predecessor company in Oakland in March, 1920, serving as electrical engineer in the city until 1925 when he became a line man. In 1932 he was made line foreman for the company's Preston county area. Camp is a comparatively new employee of the Monongahela System, having joined the company's forces early in 1938.

75 Join Red Cross

The first few days' drive in the annual Red Cross roll call has resulted in seventy-five memberships and a total amount received of $27.50, according to Mrs. Paul B. Naylor, roll call chairman. The amount has been turned over to J. M. Jarboe, treasurer.

The drive is to continue throughout November and early in December, and the goal is $600.

Thus far only workers from Oakland and Mountain Lake Park have reported. Reports from other county workers will be received next week.

Old Trees Cut

Staves by the thousand are being hauled away from Oakland's stave mill, to Clarksville, W. Va., where whiskey barrels are to be made. Hundreds of mighty oak trees have crashed to the ground this year as lumbermen have moved through what is believed to be the last big stand of virgin timber in the Western Maryland mountains. Some of the trees are said to be more than 300 years.

They are being obtained from a 300-acre tract of the Herrington Manor forest, four miles from Oakland, which was donated to the State in 1917. Eighty percent of the timber on the tract is white oak and since white oak is the only kind of wood suitable for curing whiskey, an agreement was reached with James Merriken, of Baltimore, to manufacture the staves.

Merriken set up his stave mill at Oakland early this summer and has had about fifty men at work in the woods and at the mill. He expects to continue operations for three years. After being stacked for several weeks the staves are now being moved to Clarksville by truck where they will be made into barrels.

Wood Is Transferred

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., Nov. 15 (AP)—W. W. Wood, Jr., in charge of the Martinsburg Social Security Board office since October 1938, will become assistant manager of the Wheeling office next week, it was announced today.

Wood will be succeeded here by Max G. Boatwright, formerly stationed in Salisbury, N. C.

New Furnaces Opened

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., Nov. 15 (AP)—The United Zinc Smelting Corporation opened two new furnaces today at its Moundsville plant, giving employment to forty more persons. The plant now employs about 225 persons.

Company officials said "normal production trends" caused the expansion. The two units had been idle since June, 1939.

IDENTIFICATION CARD

Miss Barbara Cox

Workers in the Navy department, Washington, must carry or wear large identification cards such as this one, showing Miss Barbara R. Cox. The plan is part of the department's twenty-four-hour-a-day vigil over defense secrets.

Grantsville Area Covered by Snow

Snow Plows Used To Keep Main Highways Open for Traffic

GRANTSVILLE, Nov. 15 — A blanket of snow covered the Grantsville area this morning for the second heavy fall of the season, and the mercury sank to the freezing point. The snow began falling about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon and continued most of the night.

Snow plows patrolled the main highways through the night, keeping them free of any icy slush. The highway department had placed ashes at convenient points along Highway No. 40 and these were scattered on the curves and grades which seemed particularly hazardous.

Hunter Is Fined

James Martin, Frostburg, was arraigned before Trial Magistrate Charles B. Zeller this morning on charges of violating game laws. Martin, who was said to have been hunting game with an unplugged repeating shotgun, was arrested near Finzel this morning by Deputy Game Warden Francis H. Ruge. At the hearing he pleaded guilty to the charge and was released upon payment of a fine of $25 and costs.

Functions of Newspapers Discussed By Dean of Northwestern School

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Nov. 15. (AP)—West Virginia newspaper editors were told tonight that "one of our big jobs in 1941 must be a public relations job of selling ourselves to the people who use our newspapers."

Dean Kenneth E. Olson of Northwestern University's Medill School of Journalism praised newspaper handling of the general election campaign and forecast that "newspaper men, I know, are going to forget our differences," but asserted that "large sections of the public may not forget the part which our press has played in this campaign."

Speaking at a dinner given for the West Virginia State Newspaper Council by the West Virginia University Press Club, Olson declared:

"President Roosevelt's reelection is going to be interpreted as a rebuke by the electorate of a press which was blind to the people's interests. Had Wendell Wilkie been elected, this would certainly have been followed by a cry that the press stacked the cards against the president, obedient to the will of big business that the New Deal must be destroyed."

Olson, who said a part of his work is to study newspapers all over the country, asserted:

"In this election, which was as close as any since 1916, it was important that the American people be given all the facts on which they could arrive at their own decision, and that I believe, out newspapers have done faithfully and well."

In their editorial columns, he said, the newspapers present their own views, but in their news columns they present fair reports of both sides of a controversy.

Unlike newspapers in many other countries, he continued, those in this country are free to print all the news, but this freedom and "the motivating force behind the newspapers of the country" are not understood by the persons who read them daily.

Truth and Accuracy Important "We must try to help them understand," the dean said, "x x x that truth and accuracy are the cardinal principles of reporting, that people cannot buy their way in or out of our news columns, that a paper is run for its readers and not for the advertisers, that a press which cannot be dictated to by either advertiser or government is a free press, and that life liberty and pursuit of happiness as guaranteed by our constitution will never be endangered as long as we have a free press."

Educational Program Is Presented By Junior Students at Mt. Savage

MT. SAVAGE, Nov. 15.—The students of the Mt. Savage junior high school held an assembly yesterday afternoon in the high school auditorium in celebration of National Education Week. The theme of the program was "Education for the Common Defense."

The program opened with the singing of "America." Posters were displayed by the art classes of grades 7 and 8. The pupils of the seventh grade enacted an original playlet called "It Has Happened Here." The playlet was in the form of a radio dramatization and the sound effect were exceptionally realistic. The plot centered around the manner in which the natural resources of the country have been misused and wasted.

Readings, talks and open forums on the different types of education made up the remainder of the program. Prof. J. Orville Kefauver gave a brief talk in which he compared the American educational system with that of other countries and pointed out the advantages which are afforded by the public schools of today. The program was concluded with the singing of "God Bless America."

Pupils having major roles in the assembly were Misses Thomasine Gibson, Gwendolyn Graham, Mary Louise Adams, Jane Bowen, Virginia Haus, Naomi Lashley, Marian Morgan, Mildred Gray, Betty O'Baker, and Marian Merrill. The affair was directed by the members of the faculty.

Catherine O'Rourke. After the program refreshments were served.

Stocks Decline Fractions to Two Points on Pessimistic War News

Dealings Top Million Share Mark for the Ninth Day

By FREDERICK GARDNER

NEW YORK, Nov. 15. (AP)—Pressure on steel was communicated to other departments in today's stock market and leaders generally turned in losses of fractions to more than two points. There were isolated declines of 4 or 30.

A few oils, rubbers and specialties managed to keep above water. While dealings were well under the million-share mark for the ninth consecutive session. Transfers totaled 1,050,090 shares compared with 1,384,290 Thursday.

The approach of a week-end and the more pessimistic tone of the European war news was blamed partly for liquidation, but hopeful business items were believed to have kept offerings within bounds. U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet, Crucible and Republic were soft throughout, although near-capacity production in this industry was expected to be maintained next week.

In arrears were General Motors, Chrysler, Douglas Aircraft, Boeing, du Pont, Westinghouse, American Can, Anaconda, Kennecott, Consolidated Edison, Western Union, North American, Sears Roebuck and Great Northern.

Up moderately were U. S. Rubber preferred, Werthington Pump, Zenith Radio and Texas Corp.

Setbacks of as much as two in the Curb were posted for Aluminum of America, Bell Aircraft, American Cyanamid "B", Brewster Aero, Electric Bond & Share, Glen Alden Coal and N. J. Zinc. Modest advances were retained by celluloid, Gulf Oil and Carrier Corp. Sales here were around 172,000 shares against 241,000 yesterday.

PRICE-FIXING IS LAID TO EYEGLASS TRADE

Groups and Persons Ruling 95% of Lens Business in Nation Are Indicted

FLEEING OF PUBLIC SEEN

Evidence Is Said to Show $20 Spectacles Could Be Sold Profitably For $7.50

A general system of price-fixing by which the cost of eye-glasses throughout the country has been kept unnecessarily high during the last decade was charged yesterday in four indictments handed up here by a Federal grand jury. The defendants include fourteen manufacturers, five wholesalers, three trade associations and twenty-one individuals.

These defendants, it was said, make and distribute 95 percent of all the eyeglass lenses sold in the United States, as well as most of the frames for them. Government investigators who conducted the investigation that led to the indictments disclosed that they would be followed by the filing of two civil suits. The ultimate object is a low price of the price to the public, it was said.

Heavy Overcharging Alleged

The indictments, charging violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust Act, are based on allegations of price-fixing of goods sold to interstate commerce. The degree to which the ultimate cost to the consumer has been inflated did not concern the investigators, it was said. However, one estimate was that a pair of eyeglasses selling for $20 might well bring a good profit if sold for $7.50.

SALLY'S SALLIES

It is a much better practice to learn each multiplication fact as a fact alone, therefore, not to learn it in a table of 2's, 6's, 7's and the like. Accordingly, the child would learn, for example, the fact, 2 times 7 are 14, 6 times 4 are 24, 2 times 3 are 6. This is just as 2 suggested the learning of each of the 100 addition and 100 subtraction facts. In ordinary experience with numbers we don't stay in the table of any one group. They come at random. Why not learn them so?

A good way is to write down all the tables, then cut them up, shuffle the slips of paper pairs, draw them by chance and copy each combination as you draw it. Then you will have a sheet of all the multiplication combinations which the child will need to memorize.

If you do so, be sure not to have the child attack more than three of these facts at a sitting. The child saves time if right after he memorizes the fact, "3 times 7 are 21," he also memorizes the fact, "7 times 3 are 21." He might know one without knowing the other.

The chances are that your child will have to learn his tables at school in groups as you did. If this is the way it is done at school don't interfere. Encourage the child to go on the school way. You might, however, induce him to practice in any such table by having them out of order. Say he has learned the table of 4's. Induce him to cut the pairs up in slips and shuffle the slips and then try himself out on them, being careful to look at each product if in doubt.

Encourage him never to use any multiplication, addition or subtraction fact in a problem until he has first memorized this fact. Let him learn by heart each number fact then use it as soon as possible thereafter.

I still have on hand copies of the 100 addition and 100 subtraction facts which every child should learn by heart before the age of nine or ten, since he will use them all the rest of his life. You may have without cost, a copy of each by writing me at 235 East 45th Street, New York City, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it.

Solving Parent Problems

Q. Are formal parties helpful to the timid, lonely, non-social child?

A. No; they make him more timid and non-social as a rule. What he needs is informal mingling at play with one or several children constantly.

Q. Is there any sense in rebuking or punishing a child of 10 or 16 if, while in a rage, he is throwing objects or using abusive language?

A. No; any talk by the parent at that time only enrages the child more. Be as cool, then, as a cucumber. I suppose cucumbers are cool. Wait several hours or days for an opportune time when you and the child are wholly calm and poised. Then gently remind him of the way he acted and ask him if he would not like to try to change himself when annoying situations arise, assuring him you would like to help him in any way you can.

Toll Bridge Job More Complicated By Commissioner

Harry C. Jones Enters Controversy Started by Elwood Schafer

BALTIMORE, Nov. 15 (AP)—A legal squabble over the superintendency of the Harry De Grace toll bridge caught the bridge trustees "in the middle" today after State Employment Commissioner Harry C. Jones questioned their right to pay bridge employees salaries.

Jones, disclosing he had not seen the last two toll bridge payrolls, advised the State Department of Transportation Commissioner Elwood Schafer, that, in his opinion, payment of state employees salaries without his approval violated the civil service law.

The trust company promptly informed State Roads Commission Auditor William A. Codd that it would seek advice of counsel before acting on the Nov. 1-15 payroll. A conference was scheduled for tomorrow morning.

Meanwhile, Elmer J. White, the commission's appointee as superintendent, engaged his own lawyer today and became a new factor in the mandamus proceeding instituted several weeks ago by Elwood Schafer of Cumberland.

The litigation, started originally from commissioner Jones' refusal to recognize White's selection as superintendent, Jones ruled the State Roads Commission violated the veterans preference law by "passing over" Schafer, a veteran, and naming White, a non-veteran.

Schafer's suit asks the court to force his appointment, replacing White. The State Roads Commission is expected to answer the action within a day or two.

A hearing originally was scheduled for Nov. 20, but was postponed for a week by Judge W. Conwell Smith, at the request of Paul Due, White's attorney. Due said he wished to intervene in behalf of his client.

Commissioner Jones said the State Roads Commission had never submitted a payroll for White to his office. After he ruled this illegal, the roads agents sent him no bridge payrolls at all, Jones asserted.

All of the toll bridge personnel were appointed from merit system eligible lists.

Six Months Term Is Given Man Who Asked "To Be Sent Away"

Three days ago Lloyd Grady, this city, walked into trial magistrate court and asked Magistrate Frank A. Perdue to send him away for six months.

Magistrate Perdue informed him at that time that some one would have to prefer a charge against him. So, yesterday, Officer Thomas T. Griffin marched Grady into court to face a vagrancy charge.

Grady quickly pleaded guilty and was sentenced to six months in the Maryland House of Correction by Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr.

With Benjamin Smith, this city, it was a different situation. He pleaded not guilty to a vagrancy charge, but was also sentenced to six months in the House of Correction.

Winfield Burton, of Burton's Inc., expressed surprise at the lack of civic pride shown in recent years and said he was certain that the business district can be properly decorated if all citizens do their part in helping raise the necessary funds. He suggested that a civic committee be named to solicit funds instead of naming a group of merchants to do the work.

City Donates $100. Mayor Irvine started the ball rolling by announcing that although the city was hard pressed for funds at the present time and the members of the city council were certain that $100 could be "squeezed out" of the city treasury as an initial step toward raising the necessary funds.

Mordock called attention to the fact that the same decorations and lights as used here during the Christmas season also would be available for use during conventions and other celebrations staged in Cumberland. He added that the only expense in future years would be for putting up and taking down the decorations. Mordock assured those present that the decorations will be put up about December 1.

Other fraternal and civic groups not represented on the committee selected last night will be duly recognized if they are represented at next Friday's session at the city hall.

Rival Coaches Praise Each Other's Team

But Columbia and Navy Tutors Hope Words Fail Them

Lou Little and Swede Larson Rate Teams Better Than Conquerors

Navy Squad Leaves for New York—Middies To Follow Today

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 15 (AP)—Columbia's Lou Little and Navy's Swede Larson practically have formed a mutual admiration society.

They haven't gone so far as to take out incorporation papers. But each coach has taken stock of the others' football team, hence the admiration.

Here's what Larson thinks of Columbia's gridiron machine, which enters Navy tomorrow in New York:

"I consider Columbia as strong and as clever a ball club as Pennsylvania and Notre Dame."

That means something because both Pennsylvania and Notre Dame beat Navy. But listen to what Little has to say:

"Navy has a big, hard-hitting, well-taught line and it supports backs in Busk, Gebert, Lenz and others who will give us more trouble than any backfield corps we've met all season."

That's covering some ground because Columbia has played the Big Red of Cornell, losing by a 27 to 0 count.

While each coach says the other has "something" in the way of gridiron material, neither is going as far as to make any prediction. Both, however, hope for the best.

The Navy squad of 43 left for New York today and the fourth battalion of midshipmen, 650 strong, the Academy band and drum and bugle corps depart tomorrow morning for Baker field.

Columbia's is Navy's last opponent before the Army clash, Nov. 30. Since 1900 when the Middies and the Lions began their gridiron rivalry, Columbia has won 5 games and Navy 4.

West Virginians Given Small Show Against Kentucky

Heavier Wildcat Team Is Favored in Today's Home-Coming Tilt

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Nov. 15 (AP)—West Virginia's Mountaineers, who got away from Cincinnati's Bearcats with a 7-7 tie, were given a mighty little chance tonight to do that well against Kentucky's Wildcats in their homecoming game tomorrow.

The only thing that might balance Kentucky's superiority was a small blizzard which swept over northern West Virginia today and made Mountaineer field soggy and hard to travel over. In slowing the Wildcats, however, the swampy field also will probably cause Coach Bill Kern of the Mountaineers to change his tactics.

Kern has been drilling his team all week on an open game as a gamble against the heavier Kentuckians, but he likely will revert to conservative play because of field conditions.

The forecast was for clear and cold weather Saturday, and a crowd of about 7,000, including members of the West Virginia Newspaper Council here for their annual meeting, was expected.

Kentucky Heavy

Because of the miserable weather the Wildcats, playing in Morgantown for the first time since 1905, contented themselves with workouts in the university field house and a brief outside limbering-up. The Mountaineers did the same.

Kentucky, weighing about fifteen pounds more per man than West Virginia's team, is fresh from a 26-7 decision over Georgia Tech, gained while the Mountaineers were holding Cincinnati to a tie. The Wildcats this season beat George Washington 24-0 while West Virginia touched the same team by three touchdowns.

Ab Kirwin will have nine seniors on the field when the whistle blows at 2 p. m.

Kern will follow his practice of sending out the veterans first, to be supplanted by his sophomore team later.

The game will mark the last home appearance for ten West Virginia seniors—Johnny Carliss, Glenn Ellis, Sam Mandich, Bob Melace, Walt Pike, John Rockis, Charley Seabright, John Shonk, Joe Siko and Bob White.

Cadets Will Postpone Philadelphia Show

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 15 (AP)—The cadet corps isn't going to be at the Army-Penn football game at Philadelphia tomorrow—what show for the Quaker City will await the Army-Navy battle—but the Army gridders are going to have a cheering section anyway.

A special provisional battalion, almost 500 strong, composed of cadets who are members of varsity, jayvee and plebe athletic teams at West Point has been authorized to make the trip.

They will go down tomorrow morning on a special train and return shortly after the game.

Each cadet has been authorized to draw one dollar spending money.

Farley Visits Landis On Yankee Purchase

CHICAGO, Nov. 15 (AP)—James A. Farley, former postmaster general who heads a syndicate which plans to purchase the New York Yankees baseball club, visited Chicago today and conferred with Commissioner of Baseball Kenesaw M. Landis.

It was reported that transfer of the club will be made formally upon Farley's return to New York. Farley was accompanied by Smith Davis, Cleveland broker, who recently predicted the deal would be consummated by the end of the month.

Davis Disqualified In Second Round For Low Punching

Referee Awards Fritzie Zivic Victory after Warning Brooklynite

NEW YORK, Nov. 15 (AP)—Fritzie Zivic, recently crowned world welterweight champion from Pittsburgh, was awarded a victory over Al (Bummy) Davis of Brooklyn tonight in Madison Square Garden when the referee disqualified the Brooklynite for low punching. Each fighter weighed 147 1/2.

Before a screaming near-sellout crowd, Davis, who has been a highly unpopular fighter, at best, in local rings, swung half a dozen low blows at the Pittsburgher, and for each punch was warned by Referee Billy Cavanaugh.

When he persisted in continuing these punches, the referee ended the bout in 2 minutes, 34 seconds of the second round.

When Cavanaugh pulled them apart and stopped the fight Davis tore from the referee's grasp, dashed at Zivic, and the fight broke out again. Davis was seen to swing his left foot in the melee, and Cavanaugh said, "he kicked me."

The fighting continued until police and Zivic's handlers climbed into the ring to pull the boxing champion and his rival apart to the tune of boos from the crowd.

Hold Up Purse

The State Athletic Commission chairman, General John J. Phelan, immediately ordered Davis' share of the purse held up pending a commission meeting Tuesday.

Zivic was far ahead in the first round, banging Davis with short rights and hard straight lefts.

In the second heat "Bummy" caught Zivic in a half-clinch, holding him about the body with his right arm. He swung his left in a blow that connected squarely on Fritzie's trunk.

Cavanaugh immediately rushed in, broke the fighters and warned Davis to "keep 'em up." Davis repeated the operation. He was warned again, with the same effect, and Zivic, each time he was struck in low territory, doubled over in pain.

After the last warning, Cavanaugh broke them again and began leading Davis to his corner.

Zivic started walking slowly to his corner, but saw Davis break from Cavanaugh's hold and start toward him. They squared off in about thirty seconds of rough and tumble mauling. Cavanaugh rushed in and separated them, but Davis continued swinging fists and kicking his left leg. Three policemen rushed through the ropes and finally restored order.

Boos are Deafening

The boos that came down from the dollar gallery seats and picked up those from the ring-side pews were like nothing that has been heard in this big sports arena in years.

Zivic is slated to defend his title here on January 17 against the great little fighter from whom he took it, Henry Armstrong, and the winner was to have been matched with Davis, provided the latter made a good showing tonight.

Carmen Notch, 150 1-2, of Pittsburgh, was awarded a decision over Harry Ginsberg, 154 1-2, of Brooklyn in a rough and tumble six-round preliminary. The latter was penalized two rounds for fouling.

Bernie Manhoff, 133, Brooklyn, outpointed Norman Rahn, 138-pound Philadelphia red-head in a four-rounder.

Terry Young, 133 1-2 of New York, outpointed Texas Lee Harpur, 134 1-2, formerly of Port Arthur, Texas, in six rounds.

Barefoot Runner in IC-4A Cross Country May Make Coach Recite Poem

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Nov. 15 (AP)—"Shoeless" Joe Coffin's naked, horn-soled feet, which have paddled unashamed to scoring position in every college cross-country race he has run for two years, await the gun starting Monday's IC-4A championships in New York City.

Coach Tom Keane, the shoeless one's mentor at Syracuse university, has abandoned efforts to confine Joe's toolsets to regulation spiked footwear.

"I just can't run with shoes on," Joe explains.

"That's right," agrees Keane, scratching his gray-thatched head. "I still don't believe it's possible, Joe does it."

Joe, a sophomore, has been in different toward the advantages of footwear since, barefooted, he first plodded behind the ploy on his father's farm near Schuylerville, N. Y.

The gravel paths, harsh concrete highways and rocky hills over which Coffin lopes his steady way in cross country races offer not the slightest hindrance to him.

He wears only a six-and-one-half size shoe when in mufti.

"Now and then I pick up something like a thumbtack," Joe explains, "but I don't notice it until after the race."

Keane once hoped Joe would put on shoes at least for the Van Courtland Park run Monday.

Finally abandoning hope, the coach has made a vow.

If shoeless Joe comes through in early scoring position, he promises he will recite, out loud:

"Blessings on the little man, barefoot boy with cheeks of tan."

'Wild Bull' Firpo Has Own Pampas Kid for Pugilism

Measures Up to Rickard's 'Ideal' Says Near Champion

AP Feature Service
BUENOS AIRES.—Luis Angel Firpo, who once fought a two round "lightning war" with Jack Dempsey, has started life anew here as the mentor of a new pretender from the pampas to the heavyweight crown of boxing.

Firpo had the crown almost in his grasp 17 years ago in New York when he knocked Dempsey into a tailspin. The stunned champion landed outside the ring.

Jack came back, however, and ended the tempestuous battle with a knockout in the second round.

Firpo was then billed as "the 'Wild Bull of the Pampas.'" It is hard to imagine this in the shy presence of Firpo today. He has a paunch, a double chin and a dim look in his eye.

Was In Business

Firpo entered a business career following his ring wars in the United States and had a meteoric rise at first. Famous here in business circles as a hard-headed and tight-fisted man of affairs, he had some reverses and went into seclusion until recently.

His life in seclusion has left its mark in his listless, diffident approach to strangers and in the presence of photographers.

But the old 1923 spirit is present when he speaks of his "find," a giant farm-boy from the fringe of La Pampa Territory, southwest of Buenos Aires.

"His punch," said Firpo, "is 80 per cent more powerful than mine at my best. He is built like Dempsey, only with more muscle and with a longer reach. And he has a chin as small for a big man that you cannot hit it."

Rickard's Ideal
Reminiscing with friendly regret of the late "Tex" Rickard, the old "Wild Bull" says:

"I remember he used to say, 'If I find a man with the build of Dempsey, your punch and a small chin, I'll have an unbeatable champion.' I wish he could have seen this boy."

"This boy" is Abel Cestax, 21 years old, 232 pounds. Firpo says Cestax is nimble despite his closely-packed bulk. Cestax, merely standing by as Firpo talks, gives an impression of tremendous brute force.

Three Unbeaten Top Teams 'on Spot' Today

Minnesota, Texas A. & M., Stanford Face Tough Foes

But All Are Favored To Continue Unbeaten March to Fame

Michigan - Northwestern Clash May Be Best Game of Day

By BILL BONY

NEW YORK, Nov. 15. (AP)—Minnesota, Stanford and Texas A. & M. again will be on the spot tomorrow when they square off in conference battles against Purdue, Oregon State and Rice.

Together with Cornell, meeting an old Ivy League foe in Dartmouth, they each are two games away from a perfect season, in the home stretch where even the most momentary lapse may be costly.

The Boston College-Georgetown game is the season's high spot for B. C. and the Hoyas. Both have been highly-touted for their 200-pound lines and their able backs, and neither has been tested since early in the season.

For Michigan and Northwestern there will be a two-fold stake. With $5,000 watching from the Ann Arbor stands these two, each beaten only by a Minnesota extra-point, will fight it out for runner-up spot in the Western Conference and a chance to tie the Gophers if by any chance they should slip.

How They Look
To get down to cases, here's how they look from this corner (home teams first, probable attendance in parentheses):

Boston College-Georgetown (39,000)—The lines look about even. Taking Boston College on backfield versatility, for were told the Hoyas passers can't run and the runners can't pass.

Michigan-Northwestern (45,000)—This vote for Northwestern also is based on the backfields—the fact that the Wildcats, to match Michigan's Harmon, can call on DeCorse, Glasgow, Hahnemann, Soper and Chambers, all of them better than average.

Stanford-Oregon State (40,000)—Next-to-last step into the Rose Bowl for Stanford.

Rice-Texas A. & M. (27,000)—Too much experience, power and pace on the Aggies' side.

Dartmouth-Cornell (12,000)—The same applies to Cornell, only more so.

Oldest Rivals Meet
Tennessee-Virginia (12,000)—Tennessee.

Minnesota-Purdue (30,000)—Minnesota.

Princeton-Yale (50,000)—Princeton to make it three straight over the Elis for the first time in football's longest unbroken rivalry.

Notre Dame-Iowa (50,000)—One back as good as Bill Green doesn't look like enough to halt the Irish.

North Carolina-Duke (42,000)—This vote would go to Duke even if the Tarheels were up to their physical par.

Pitt-Nebraska (35,000)—A chance for the East to see how good the Huskies are, Nebraska.

Columbia-Navy (30,000)—Pickin' Navy to get some of those backs loose behind two better-than-fair lines.

Penn-Army (50,000)—Penn.

Georgia Tech-Alabama (25,000)—Alabama.

Illinois-Ohio State (35,000)—Looks like loss No. 6 for Illini.

Washington-Southern California (30,000)—Washington.

Southern Methodist-Arkansas (15,000)—The form chart says S. M. U.

Manhattan-Villanova (15,000)—Manhattan.

Wisconsin-Indiana (18,000)—Indiana on Hurst's passing.

Tulane-Georgia (30,000)—Tulane.

Texas Tech-Wake Forest (10,000)—Can go either way, Tech.

Here 'N' There Elsewhere
Brown over Harvard, Temple over Holy Cross, Kentucky over West Virginia, George Washington over Kansas, unbeaten Penn State over New York U., Carnegie Tech over Franklin and Marshall.

Virginia Military over Maryland, Virginia Tech over Centre, Florida over Miami, South Carolina over Furman, N. C. state over the Citadel, Washington and Lee over Sewanee, Clemson over Southwestern.

Amateur Ties Snead in Mid-South Golf Meet
PINEHURST, N. C., Nov. 15. (AP)—Richard Chapman of New York, national amateur champion, and Spraggin Samuels of Hot Springs, Va., tied today for first place in the 36-hole meet to determine the individual winner of the annual mid-south golf tournament.

Snead and Chapman had 70-73-143 each. Samuels collected $350 in prize money and a trophy went to Chapman.

Mammoth and Mastodon
BOSTON — The mammoth and the mastodon are supposed to be extinct species. They are not. There are still two left, operating under the names of Georgetown and Boston College.

They may not individually be quite as big as the mammoth or the mastodon, but they are faster and smarter. At least they are far from being extinct.

When they meet in Boston packed stands will see over 4,000 pounds of active and alert human flesh thrown together on the same field.

In addition to big, fast-moving lines, including two of the best centers of the year, both have backfield speed and backfield skill.

In Doolan, Georgetown has a 97 back. In Holovak, Boston College has one of the top ball carriers of the year.

To say nothing of O'Rourke, Boston also has a scrappy Harvard-Brown game to watch, but the main talk in this football stronghold is usually thrown in the direction of B.C. and Georgetown, where power meets power and speed meets speed.

Here's one pre-game angle. Mal Stevens, whose N.Y.U. team has come against Georgetown, told me, "I don't see how any one can beat them." Herb Kopf's Manhattan team has played Boston College.

"I don't believe anybody can beat this team," Herb says.

No wonder, under these circumstances that Boston, which isn't easily tilted out of balance, is what you might call agog over her big party.

Redskins and Bears
There is a general feeling among the pro football map that neither the Redskins nor the Bears are strong enough to whip the other team twice in a row.

"Whoever wins in Washington on Sunday is likely to lose the championship game later on, if the same pair meet. It's a hard game to pick, as Sammy Baugh is always a factor. The Bears have the better running attack, the best in football so far as speed and power is concerned. But stopping Baugh is another matter when he begins to get hot—and he has been on fire all this year."

Johnny Dell Isola of the Giants likes the Bears over Washington's Redskins. "The combination of their running speed and driving power is terrific," he said. "It's like trying to stop a mixture of army tanks and motorcycles."

Peckinpach in Cleveland
Roger Peckinpach, the new Cleveland leader, is too smart and too experienced to start any new season with the spirit of revolt churning the baseball breasts of his stars.

Last spring, well before the revolt against Vitti, we wrote a piece saying there were too many bad actors on the Cleveland club for any pennant success. We knew of four at that time who were about as easy to handle as four tigers, outside the cage.

Peck may have to pull a Joe McCarthy and chase out some of the disgruntled ones. Joe has never been a ball player good enough to be a disturber. The Yankee manager promptly shows the way to the exit.

Looking at the Tiger infield and the condition of the Yankee pitching staff, Cleveland should be in a neat spot next spring under Peck's direction.

Back to the Bowls
What's the matter with picking the winner of the Boston College-Georgetown game for a Rose Bowl choice? asks R.L.H. "How many would bet even money that Tennessee or Texas A. and M. could beat either? The first two are also from the East, not from the South and Southwest, which have been taking over most of the Rose Bowl programs lately."

The answer is that it will be Stanford—or other West Coast winner—which will look after the selecting and the inviting. As long as the Rose Bowl can offer 90,000 seats at $4.40 each, it will have the jump along strictly financial lines, if not on football talent and skill.

Ol' Man Mose Ain't Dead—He's Livest Football Coach

Sims Has His St. Mary's U. Nomads Showing Fans How

By FELIX MC KNIGHT

AP Feature Service
SAN ANTONIO, Tex. — Down here on a knoll just outside the city limits is a man and a football team. The man is Mose Sims, the team is that of little St. Mary's University. No stranger combination exists.

Mose Sims is a quiet character who knows a little showmanship is worth a couple of touchdowns any day. His team is composed of pretty fair football players—many of them ineligible from major universities and colleges—many of them bona fide Texans who just went to St. Mary's.

On a big bus, equipped with all the modern conveniences, including electric razor, this nomadic band roams the nation, playing football games one Saturday in Grand Forks, North Dakota, the next in Manchester, N. H. From there—who knows?

Maybe on up to Brooklyn and then a dash back down to San Antonio. The traveling squad of 30 has learned to live in a bus. Not much time for practice on these trips, but most of them know football anyway.

A few years ago Mose Sims, a man with a million ideas, moved into St. Mary's with a crafty coach—Frank Bridges, former Baylor University mentor.

Football teams from St. Mary's started traveling, and, more important, started winning and attracting attention.

Bridges is gone now and Sims is coach.

A typical Sims gag and St. Mary's football trip?

Three seasons ago the Rattlers boarded their old battered bus and chugged into San Francisco several days later—looking like a bunch of Okies from the Dust Bowl. They had a game with San Francisco University.

Sports writers took one peek at the Texas hayseeds and shamed San Francisco for booking the game. Sims quickly cooked up one of his better gags.

The St. Mary's lads, clad in torn and ragged uniforms, took a work-out in City Park, downtown. The jerseys were full of holes; the pants were of many sizes and shapes. Only third and fourth stringers participated in the drills.

Oh, maybe a few second stringers.

The regulars, and a rugged lot they were, came in with stiff necks that night from seeing the sights while Sims' gag boys worked out. San Francisco representatives and snickering sports scribes grinned through the rag-knot drill.

Ever The Showman
Sims wore softly and pushed his act to the limit. After the farcical practice he turned to the experts and allowed as how they'd just try to keep San Francisco from setting a new scoring record on the morrow.

Now the morrow — and San Francisco's greatest shock.

Garbed in stunning red, white and blue uniforms, silk pants and silver helmets, stars on the jersey shoulders, the "real thing" pranced on the field and went through crisp warmups.

Came the kickoff—and the hurricane. St. Mary's snapped through intricate shifts, presented in Doug Locke, halfback, a man who made The Associated Press Little All-America team.

Just at sundown St. Mary's walked off the field, 7-6 winner over a great San Francisco team that rated as one of the best on the Pacific slope.

That's St. Mary's of San Antonio and Mose Sims, one of football's strangest combinations.

11 Cinderella Boys And A Coach Roll Along Toward The Rose Bowl

By SAM JACKSON

AP Feature Service Writer
PALO ALTO, Calif.—A Cinderella story of football is being written this season, and its logical storybook ending should take place in the Rose Bowl on New Year's day.

Its hero is Clark Daniel Shaughnessy, Stanford University's new coach. With the same players who in 1939 gave Stanford its most dismal, disastrous season in years, he mopped up on the Pacific Coast conference.

Until Stanford completes its schedule by playing its old rival California, on November 30 the happy ending will have to be held in abeyance. But even if a defeat edges Stanford out of the Rose Bowl, the 1940 team still will have made history.

Miserable 1939 Season
At the end of 1939, Stanford had had C. E. "Tiny" Thornhill as football coach for seven years. With his famous "vowing sophomores" he had won a conference championship and a Rose Bowl date three times, but recently things were going badly.

Except for its final victory over Dartmouth, the Stanford team was unable to win a single game on its 1939 schedule.

Thornhill was dismissed. About this time the University of Chicago, after a humiliating season of top-sided losses, decided to discontinue football and Shaughnessy became a coach without a team. Stanford hired him.

Shaughnessy, 48, has been identified with football as either player or coach for 30 years. His reputation was made largely at Tulane and Loyola universities in New Orleans.

Employs Pro Formation
Shaughnessy brought with him the T formation, which the professional Chicago Bears use for offense, and which had been employed only sparingly in coast football.

He was lucky to find a fast and intelligent backfield waiting for him. Big, fast Norman Standlee, considered one of the coast's standouts, became the backbone of the offense. In Frank Albert, a lightweight, he developed a brilliant hander and a great left-handed passer.

Hugh Galliarneau, Pete Kmetovic and little Al Cole also proved to be backs who had both the speed and the brains to carry out the complicated Shaughnessy strategy.

Experts considered Stanford a virtual cinch for the conference cellar. But the dazzling new attack humbled San Francisco 27 to 0, Oregon 13 to 0, tough Santa Clara 7 to 6, and Washington State 26 to 14.

'Shoot The Works'
Then came mighty Southern California, conference champion. A 7-10-7 tie lasted most of the game; then while more conservative members of the Stanford coaching staff prayed that the team would merely hold that ball and be thankful, Frankie Albert engineering a last-minute passing attack that took the ball 80 yards to the winning touchdown.

Next came U.C.L.A. and Stanford's dazzling plays rolling up a 20-to-14 victory. Washington, the next foe, was beaten 20-10. Oregon State and California remain ahead.

Maryland U. Coaches Figure Chance To Win
COLLEGE PARK, Md., Nov. 15. (AP)—Maryland university's football squad took an hour's drill early this afternoon, then entrained for tomorrow's annual game with Virginia Military Institute at Lynchburg, Va.

The Terps were hoping for clear weather and good footing, for they will depend heavily on the fleetness and kicking of quarterback Joe Murphy and the passing of Mealie Duvall against the much heavier cadets.

Including Jack Faber and Al Woods of the three-man coaching staff, there were 30 in the Maryland expeditionary force. The university's 70-piece band and a number of rooters leave early tomorrow, with many students making the trip by automobile.

The squad was in good shape and coaches asserted Maryland had "better than an outside chance" to win.

Three Games On Nearby Gridiron Schedules Today

Romney Closes Season and Potomac Plays at West Liberty

Three games appear on today's grid slate. Romney high machine will journey to Berkeley Springs to tangle with the Indians. Potomac State's Catamounts will battle West Liberty on the latter's field and Hagerstown will tackle Hanover at Hanover.

Romney, which captured Potomac Valley Conference honors last week when it shaded Ridgeley, will be ringing down the curtain on one of the school's best campaigns.

Coach Bob Kyle's combination has won six of seven games and has had its goal line crossed only by one team—Charles Town. The Purple Panthers defeated Romney 20-0 for the latter's only setback. In seven games, the Kyemmen have amassed 121 points or an average of over 17 per game.

Coach Dana Lough's Potomac State eleven hopes to end its campaign by scoring its second victory. The Catamounts, after losing their first seven games and failing to tally a touchdown, got going last Saturday to bury the Shepherd College Rams under a 41-0 score.

The other games on today's slate are Keyser at Moorefield in a Potomac Valley Conference encounter, West Virginia Deaf School of Romney and Mercersburg College Junior Varsity at Mercersburg, Pa., and Frederickburg at Handley of Winchester, Va. It will be the final contest for Keyser and Moorefield.

SLIPPERY ROCK, Pa., Nov. 15. (AP)—Sliding on their own slippery and frosty field today, the Slippery Rock Teachers soccer team lost their first game after 11 straight victories to the visiting Frostburg Teachers, champions of Maryland. The score was 2 to 1.

LaSalle Shades Ridgeley Eleven, 9 to 6

Hahnmen Put up Stubborn Fight Before Bowing

Explorers Come Back after Being Outplayed in First Quarter

Ridgeley, On Defense Most of Last Half, Scores on Long Run

LaSalle High's Explorers, after being outplayed and outgained during the first quarter of their game with Ridgeley High last night at the Fort Hill Stadium, came to life in the second session, took complete command of the duration of the game except for a brief spell which netted a Ridgeley touchdown in the fourth stanza, and walked off the field with a well-earned 9-6 victory. The win was the Blue and Gold's fifth of the season, and the loss, the final game for the losers was their third in nine battles.

A lean crowd of approximately 500 shivering fans saw the Explorers tally a safety on a blocked punt midway in the second session and then clinch the battle with a 45-yard touchdown advance in the final stanza. The Explorers scored their touchdown on a beautiful 61-yard dash by Halfback Bob Zimmerman following the North Enders' six-point.

Bill "Lefty" Smith accounted for LaSalle's marker on a line buck from the one-yard line following an unopposed march and "Vic" Malloy converted, while the safety was credited to Bob Brooks and Ed McGraw. Left guard and left end, respectively, who blocked one of Zimmerman's punts on the two-yard ribbon, with the latter falling on the oval in the end zone.

Lookabaugh, Zimmerman Start

With big John Lookabaugh and the shifty Zimmerman toiling the ball, the Ridgeleyites started out like they really meant business. The Black and White reeled off four first stanzas and rolled up 73 yards on rushing to the winners' 21. But following a short series of ground plays at the beginning of the second round, Coach Bill Hahn's eleven was kept on the defense the bigger portion of the remainder of the game.

The West Virginians had the ball on the offense only five times in the second half and on three of those occasions they were forced to kick from behind their own goal. The other two times Lookabaugh gained six yards on an off-tackle smash and Zimmerman galloped 61 yards for the Hahnmen's only score.

A checkup of final statistics reveals that the Explorers made 253 yards on ground plays and 22 on passes for a grand total of 275 yards, while Ridgeley gained 162 yards, all on running plays, the Black and White failing to complete any of their four tosses. In first downs, LaSalle had a 12-5 edge. The winners lost 16 yards on running plays, while the vanquished eleven received 21 yards on the wrong side of the ledger. LaSalle was penalized 35 yards and Ridgeley five.

Winners Threaten Often

The stars for Coach Pat Conway's North Enders were Vic Malloy and Cavanaugh with their ground gaining and Bob Brooks, Larry Klosterman and the Palmers, Donald and Ronald, on the defense. "Penny" Shaffer turned in his usual brilliant game at quarterback.

Lookabaugh and Zimmerman were easily the losers' best running the ball while Left End Wally Carr made things miserable for the LaSalle backs with his fine play on the defense. Lookabaugh drove through the Blue and Gold's forward wall like an express train, spinning and fighting his way for big gains, while Zimmerman had all the grace of a ballet dancer and the speed of a tornado, when carrying the leather.

The Conwaymen were always threatening in the last half and it was only the fine defensive play of the Ridgeley team that prevented them from rolling up a big score. Twice the Explorers drove within the Hahnmen's five-yard line and twice the Ridgeley line tightened and held. In the third period the Centre Street pigskinners went all the way to the three, while just as the final run exploded, Zimmerman came through from his secondary spot to haul down Malloy on the one.

LaSalle kicked off to Ridgeley to start the game, McGraw booting to Clarence Hartman on the 24 and the latter returning 19 yards to the Ridgeley 43. Zimmerman lost a yard on a reverse, Lookabaugh bounded through the line for eight and Bob Washbaugh was smeared by Don Palmer for a two-yard loss before Zimmerman punted to the LaSalle 29.

The Explorers drew a 15-yard holding penalty on the first play. Smith made four at tackle and Malloy then caught the West Virginians' last footed with a quick kick which carried to the Ridgeley 35. The Hahnmen marched from that point on two straight firsts which put them on the LaSalle 29. But here Washbaugh was spilled for an eight-yard loss on a reverse and Lookabaugh's screen pass was intercepted by Brooks on the LaSalle 32.

After the Explorers made their first down of the stanza, three plays netted but three yards and

Will Louis-McCoy Scrap Injure the Fight Game?

(Released by North American Newspaper Alliance)

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—Many a citizen who can make his voice heard on the boxing beat is weeping big tears for the plight of the city of Boston and wailing that the Joe Louis-Al McCoy fight on December 16 will be a civic outrage and a disgrace to the memory of Prescott Warren and Samuel Adams.

The notion seems to be that the Louis-McCoy thing is an outright crime, that it hurts the fight game, and sport generally, that Boston will rue the day she fostered such a growth.

"Why do they stand for matches like that?" said a sportsman, a former All-American football player, who to your correspondent the other day.

"How do you mean?" said your correspondent innocently, shifting to the right to block an end run.

"McCoy has got no business in the same ring with Louis," said the old Blue. "It's a crime."

No Cause To Call the D. A. We will not continue this dialogue, for the argument can be summed up in honest prose, without benefit of quotes. To my mind, the Louis-McCoy match would be a crime if McCoy were blind, or short one leg, or bereft of one arm, or in the throes of pneumonia, or suffering from shell-shock. However, McCoy is sound enough to pass an army entrance requirement, and he has pursued the trade of pugilism for half a dozen years, and I do not see any reason for calling in the district attorney.

There are three questions to be asked in this connection, namely:

1. Whom do you want Louis to fight?

2. Do you think McCoy is sick, or maimed, or in any way a hospital case?

3. Do you want a heavyweight champion who fights often and unquestioningly, under any circumstances, or do you want to be fooled by an annual build-up?

Taking them one at a time, there is the question of finding opponents for Louis. He wants to fight. His managers want him to fight. They all want to make money by having him fight. And the public wants to pay to see him fight. In short, the public wants to see Joe Louis as often as possible, and there is no other conclusion to be drawn from the sum of the gate receipts of every Louis bout.

Joe Doesn't Want To Wait. Louis has fought every available heavyweight. He has beaten four former champions and one active champion. He has shattered nearly every logical contender. There are only two now outstanding—Lou Nova and Billy Conn. Because these two are the leading prospects, it will be better for all hands, including the public, if Louis waits until they are perfectly ready. Louis doesn't want to wait. He would be happy to fight Conn or Nova next week and get it over with. But it will be better for the public if he waits until he is ready to fight Louis. If you don't like McCoy, whom would you suggest that Louis fight on this winter date, with the public anxious to see him, and Louis anxious to keep in trim?

In other words, what is wrong with a popular champion fighting as often as possible, so long as his opponent knows the rules and is neither ill nor crippled? Does Louis pick McCoy because McCoy is a soft touch? No. He picks McCoy because McCoy, by a freak of chance, is practically the only heavyweight in the world of adequate experience whom he hasn't licked already.

Look at the records and you will find that Sullivan and Jeffries and Johnson fought men who could not by any stretch of the imagination have been stronger than McCoy. Look at Dempsey's "one-a-year" policy and you will see that only build-up and public impatience made Carpenter, for instance, seem a stronger opponent than McCoy. He wasn't.

If you think I am shilling for the promoter, you've never seen the promoter and me together. I don't envy Boston this fight. But I don't pity her. She'll get what she pays for—a look at Louis, and a chance to root for a favorite son.

Maryland Turf Scene Shifts to Bowie Track Today

Indications Point to Banner Meet in Southern Maryland

BALTIMORE, Nov. 15.—There will be no breathing spell between the Pimlico and Bowie meetings. The curtain fell today on the 13-day meeting of the Maryland Jockey Club, and tomorrow the racing fraternity will truck on down through the Southern Maryland pines to Bowie, in Prince George's county, where a season of the same length will get under way.

Indications point to Bowie having a banner meeting. A generous increase in purse money will attract better horses and, in turn, the top-ranking thoroughbreds will draw larger crowds to push greenbacks through the tote windows.

The magnetic power of a $1,200 overnight purse (previously the pots were $1,000) is reflected by the list of stables planning to take in the meet. Several big outfits, whose silks never have been seen at the "Course in the Pines," are ready to swing into action.

General Manager Joseph Farrell has been busy allotting stalls for the last month and has found it necessary to turn several horsemen away, sending them to Laurel, which is 10 miles away, or telling them to remain at Pimlico, where entries will be taken each morning.

23 Nominated for Lynch Memorial

Evenly distributed throughout the meeting, five stakes are to be decided during the 13-day meeting. The first will be the $5,000-added Thomas K. Lynch Memorial Handicap, to be run over the mile-and-a-half route as the feature of tomorrow's program.

This event closed with 23 nominations and half of the eligibles have pointed to face Starter Jim Milton.

Joseph E. Widener's Roman looms the likely choice; he has been assigned the top weight of 122 pounds by Racing Secretary John B. Campbell, who also serves in the same capacity at New York tracks.

In discussing the race today, Campbell said: "Every running of the Lynch Memorial has been hotly contested. However, it is my opinion that the sixth renewal tomorrow will produce the best-run race of the series."

The Lynch Stakes will be run as the fifth event of the seven-race card. Post time for the first race is 1:30 p. m., and the daily-double windows will close at 1:15. The daily-double betting will be on the first and second events.

Colorado State Has Eyes Toward Future

Fort Collins, Colo., Nov. 15 (AP)—After 30 seasons of schooling boys in football at Colorado State, Harry Hughes still has eyes front toward future success.

He has the staff with which to build—his best squad in the six years since Colorado State was a power in mountain football and some of the slickest sophomores in the mile high country.

The tall, taciturn ex-Oklahoman, who was 53 last month, started an all-sophomore backfield against New Mexico, something almost unheard of in a major conference.

None of Harry's boys was born when he won his first conference title in 1915, four years after starting at Colorado State.

This season he attracted them in gaudy, optimistic orange and buck-toothed them in wide-open football, lock-stitched with lateral passes. So far they have won three and tied one in six games and made good the dean's prediction: "We may get beat, but nobody is going to run over us."

One of his prize sophomores is Sherwood Fries, a 218-pound "glam-or-boy" from Hollywood, who is one of the greatest kickers the Rockies ever saw. Three times this season he has punted 76 yards or better from scrimmage. He averaged 49 yards against Denver, 52 against Colorado, 43 against Utah State.

Hughes' boys run into their toughest foe of the season tomorrow in Utah, the Big Seven leader. Maybe Harry will dream up a big surprise for the favorite. It's a matter of record that he has before.

TEXAS AGGIES CONTINUE TO BE PRIDE OF SOUTHWESTERN TEAMS

Headed by Jarrin John Kimbrough, All-American fullback, the Texas Aggies go on their merry way, undefeated for the second year in a row. Coached by Homer Norton, the Texas A. & M. squad has taken all opponents in stride and includes victories over the strong Southern Methodist and Baylor teams. Marsh Robnett is one of the Aggies' outstanding candidates for All-Americans honors this year.

Local Man Held After Lashbaugh Youth Succumbs

Theodore W. Swanger Committed to Jail in Default of $5,000 Bond

Theodore W. Swanger, 21, of RFD 2, Williams road, yesterday was committed to the county jail in default of $5,000 bond to await action of the January grand jury when arraigned in trial magistrates court on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the death of Russell P. Lashbaugh, 16, of Mt. Savage.

The youth was the third person killed this week in highway accidents in the local area, making Allegheny county's 1940 traffic toll eleven.

Swanger, a Celanese worker, stood dumb-founded in court when Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., informed him that Lashbaugh was dead. He said no one had told him of the youth's death.

Accidental Death

Young Lashbaugh and three men were in the car driven by Swanger when it skidded on Route 36, near Zihlman, and crashed against a culvert Thursday afternoon. The youth died yesterday at 8:50 a. m. at Miners' hospital, Frostburg.

Dr. Linne H. Corson, deputy medical examiner, issued a certificate of "accidental death."

The men, Frank Mason, 26, of 114 Offutt street; Brooks Crites, 21, of 254 Seymour street, and John Bennett, 16, of Mt. Savage, were released on their own recognizance as state witnesses by Magistrate Bruce. All suffered minor cuts and bruises in the accident.

Authorities were told the youth was returning home from Zihlman when he was picked up by Swanger. Young Lashbaugh went to the home of an uncle, Benjamin Porter, at Zihlman, to borrow a shotgun, after obtaining a hunting license earlier Thursday. The uncle was not home and he started to walk back to Mt. Savage when he "thumbed" a ride from Swanger, whom he did not know.

Soon after he entered the car it was wrecked on the highway near the Parkersburg road intersection. Lashbaugh and Bennett were riding in the back seat.

Following the accident, Swanger was tried in Frostburg before Magistrate Owen T. Porter on charges of drunken and reckless driving and operating a motor vehicle without a license. He pleaded guilty to all three counts and was sentenced to sixty days in jail in default of fines totaling $120 and costs.

Admits He Was Drinking

In the local court, Swanger said he wasn't a "drinking man," but admitted being intoxicated when the accident occurred. He said he didn't know what happened or remember who was driving the car.

Swanger told Magistrate Bruce he was married and had a family.

County Investigator Terrence J. Boyle, who accompanied the men into court, said Swanger and the other occupants of the car were questioned earlier in the office of State's Attorney Morgan C. Harris, Mason, Crites and Bennett all signed statements saying Swanger was driving the car, he said.

State Trooper Carl G. Storm assisted in the investigation.

Young Lashbaugh attended Mt. Savage Junior high school last year. He was a member of the Methodist church, there.

Surviving are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herman P. Lashbaugh, three brothers, Wilbert E., Joseph R., and Walter O. Lashbaugh, and one sister, Mrs. Charles Bloom, all of Mt. Savage.

Three Men Enlist In National Guard

The strength of Company G, Maryland National Guard, was increased to 106 men this week by the addition of three recruits, Capt. Randolph Millholland announced last evening.

Jack Cunningham, of 117 Columbia street; Ralph C. Dawson, of 316 Harrison street and Frederick P. Freehold, of 7 Wabash streets, Ridgeley, W. Va., are the new recruits.

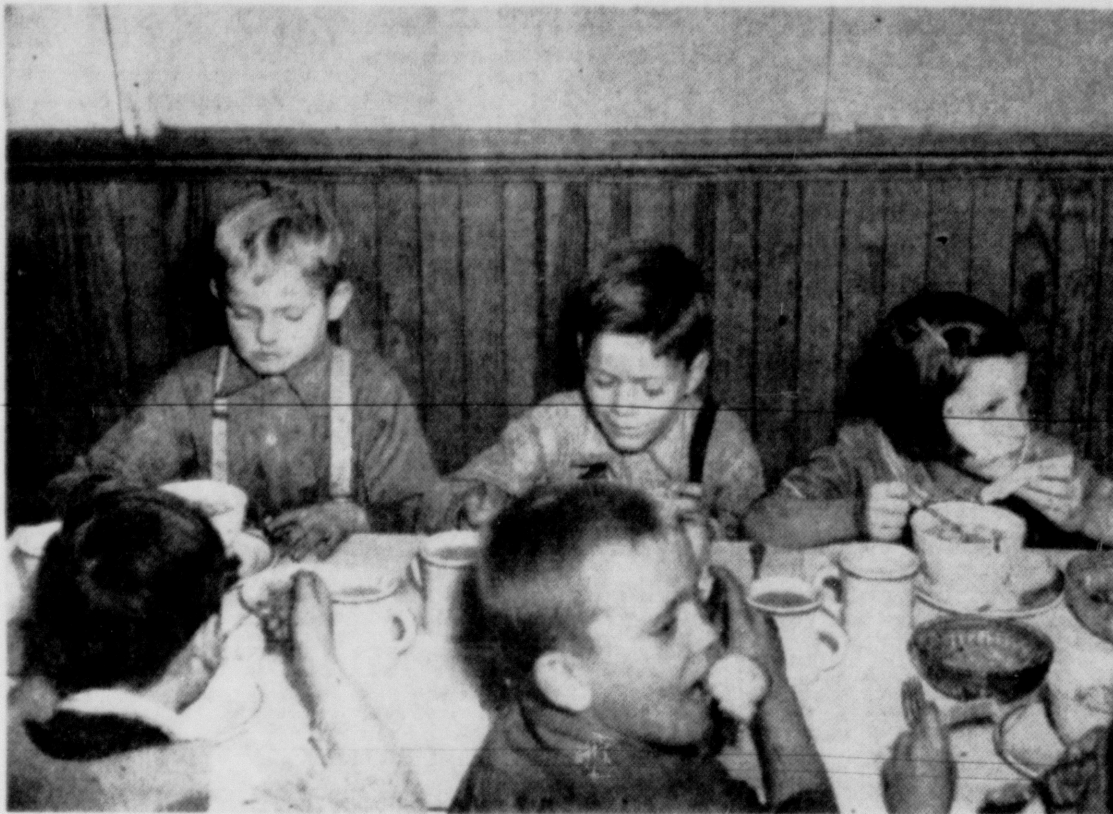

In announcing the enlistments, Capt. Millholland cited three advantages offered to young men who join the National Guard. They are:

1. National guardsmen are in contact with men from their home town and are under experienced officers.

2. National guardsmen serving one year of active duty and two years in the home station are completely through with military service unless war is declared.

3. Drafted men are required to serve one year of active duty but are subject to call for a period covering the following ten years.

LUNCH IS SERVED—The children pictured above are students of Hammond Street elementary school in Westernport and are just getting started on their "hot lunch" of vegetable soup and crackers, peanut butter sandwiches, rice custard pudding, cocoa, and an apple. The lunches were inaugurated October 14 through the cooperation of the school Parent-Teacher Association and the WPA. It is the first such project started in Allegheny county schools.

William Collins Wins Lawsuit by Verdict of Jury

Suit Grew Out of Dispute over Boundary Line in Rawlings Section

The battle in circuit court between William C. Collins and Charles L. Hansel over the boundary lines between their respective farms in the Rawlings section ended yesterday afternoon, when the jury returned a verdict at 4:55 p. m. in favor of Collins after deliberating for fifty-five minutes.

The case occupied the court for two days, with much testimony on whether a certain locust tree was or was not used as a surveyor's "point" in marking off the boundary line between the two farms.

The locust tree is described in a deed executed in 1884 and describes it as growing alongside an old mill race claimed to be the starting point of the farm now tenanted by Collins.

Hansel contended that the wording of the deed designates the old mill run which still winds its way about the Rawlings district. Walter C. Capper, counsel for Collins, maintained that the "race" was there in 1884 even though the water has long since ceased to run through its course.

The land in dispute between the "run" and "race" amounts to a strip of ground about 100 feet wide and running along the road to Westernport. It is improved with a large granary and several other buildings.

The jury's verdict allows Collins to keep the land and its improvements.

The race is no longer extant but the stump of the locust tree still stands a short distance from the old stream bed.

The litigation between the two men started last May with the filing of suit against Collins for trespass by Hansel. Collins in return filed a petition in the court asking for a warrant of resurvey and the jury decided in his favor after testimony was heard.

Hansel was represented by Charles G. Watson, attorney, and Collins was represented by Mr. Capper and William S. Jenkins, as co-counsel.

Free Lunch Program Is Started in Elementary School in Westernport

200 or More Boys and Girls in First Six Grades Enjoy Wholesome Hot Lunches Daily

For the past two years the Parent Teacher Association of the Hammond Street school in Westernport, has been equipping a modern kitchen and lunch rooms in the school basement.

The aim of the organization in doing this was to establish eventually a school lunch program where by all needy and under-privileged children of the school could receive a free, hot lunch daily.

Approximately half of the enrollment of the 500 students are transported by bus to and from school and it was thought that better health, better attendance and improved scholarship would result from regular hot lunches at school.

Before the opening of school this year, Miss Nellie F. Dowling, principal, and members of the Parent Teachers' Association lunch committee, requested Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of schools, to ask the Allegheny County Board of Education to sponsor, with them, a WPA project to furnish assistance in setting up a hot-lunch program at the school.

Board Agrees

The board agreed to act with the P-T-A as sponsors of the project and with the assistance of F. W. Springer, WPA area director, and Miss Dorothy C. Worrlow, area director of professional and service projects, a school lunch project was secured.

Different agencies were contacted for aid. The state department of welfare, through Mr. Enser, superintendent of commodity distribution in Maryland, agreed to ship, prepaid, to a central point in the county each month, available commodities according to the number of eligible children.

The county department of health volunteered to examine children using the program, and now gives physical examinations to all workers on the project. Miss Janet Walker, county health nurse, is in charge of this work and has an office in the school building.

Training Classes Given

Under the direction of Miss Ruth Weber, assistant WPA director, special training classes were given those who were to assist on the project.

On October 14, the first school lunch program, utilizing surplus commodities and WPA assistants, was served at the school to more than 200 children of grades one to six.

A percentage of the children who are financially able pay ten cents for their lunch, this money being used to purchase supplementary commodities.

The lunches have been served each school day since then and the project has been visited by county health officials, school officials, and WPA officials. They have been unanimous in their praise and feel that although the project is in the experimental stage it has proved worthwhile.

Project Is Checked

The foregoing has been a short explanation of the steps taken to secure the project and methods of procedure, but the News went further and sent a reporter and photographer to check the project from the outsider's viewpoint.

Arriving at the school shortly before lunch period, the News men went to Miss Dowling's office. She took them to the lunch room in the basement for an examination of the facilities. There they found two large rooms, with the kitchen between.

The first room contained six tables about ten feet long with benches along each side. On the tables were places for each child with knives, forks and spoons. An apple, a bowl of rice custard pudding and several peanut butter sandwiches were also placed for each child. Grades one to three used this room.

The same condition was present in the other lunch room with the exception of the tables and benches. They were a little larger than those in the first room.

Just then the News men heard the sound of the lunch bell and soon 200 children were on their way to a delicious lunch.

The first arrivals were the boys and girls of the first, second, and third grades. They filed in like little soldiers, and seated themselves at the tables. As each table was seated, on child would arise and give the blessing. Then the vegetable soup and crackers, peanut butter sandwiches, rice pudding, apple, and cocoa were eaten with much gusto.

Clean and Fresh

THEY'RE THANKFUL—These Hammond Street school students in Westernport are from grades four to six. They serve themselves, cafeteria style, and before each meal one student asks the blessing. The meals which they are served are nourishing and palatable and take the place of dry sandwiches, candy bars and cold drinks, they used to eat. A marked improvement has been noted in their studies since the project was launched.

LADLING OUT SOUP—This is a view of part of the kitchen where WPA workers prepare meals for over 200 students at the Hammond Street school, in Westernport. Each worker is given a physical examination by county health officials before going to work on the project. Four persons are employed in the kitchen while four others serve the younger children.

Textile Workers Send $100 Check To Red Cross

Bolt and Forge Contributes $90; Donations Now Total $1,860

A check for $100 from the Textile Workers of America, Local 1874, was the largest contribution received from any organization yesterday, the fifth day of the annual Red Cross Roll Call of the Allegheny County Chapter. It was announced by Mrs. George Henderson, chairman.

A contribution of $90 was received from the Bolt and Forge Department, of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, Mrs. Henderson said.

Ten-dollar contributions were received from the Western Maryland Industrial Union Council and Thomas Paris, manager of the American Hat Cleaning Company.

Officials of the textile union informed Mrs. Henderson that the organization will continue to accept memberships for the Red Cross.

A check-up last evening showed that contributions totaling $1,860.91 had been received for the five days of the campaign. This figure failed to include reports from the various chairmen and workers in the business district and points in the county outside of Cumberland.

The campaign will be concluded with a dinner at which time a complete report on contributions and memberships will be announced.

Smith Receives Panorama Sketch Of Cumberland

Map Drawn in 1906 Was Sent Here Recently from Rutland, Vermont

Harold W. Smith, secretary of the chamber of commerce, has received a large panorama sketch of Cumberland from Rutland, Vermont.

The sketch which measures about four feet long and two and a half feet wide is the work of two artists named Fowler and Kelley, of Morrisville, Pa. The sketch is of Cumberland in the year 1906.

Around the main sketch are small sketches of individual buildings of that time. The small sketches are approximately two and a half inches square.

When one looks at the drawing it is evident that it was sketched from McKaig's hill, above Maryland avenue.

Prominent Places Shown

Some of the more prominent places depicted are the B. & O. rolling mills, Queen City station, the old Maryland Glass Works, German Brewery, the various bridges over the Will's Creek and the Potomac river, Emmanuel Episcopal church, the court house and St. Patrick's church, and grounds.

One look at the picture and it is readily discernible the huge growth Cumberland has made in the past thirty-four years.

The sketch goes into great detail and Mr. Smith said it is one of the finest views of Cumberland he has ever seen.

Among the miniatures drawn around the main sketch are St. Peter and Paul church, the Rev. Constantine Hoefler is listed as pastor at that time, Centre Street Methodist church; German Lutheran church; the Y.M.C.A. building, now the Peskin shoe store establishment; Humbird school; St. Mary's church and school; Central Methodist Episcopal church, Presbyterian church; Carroll Hall; First Baptist church; the Rev. W. R. Mood, pastor then; St. Patrick's church; St. Paul's Lutheran church, with J. W. McCauley, listed as pastor.

Textile Workers Send $100 Check To Red Cross

Bolt and Forge Contributes $90; Donations Now Total $1,860

A check for $100 from the Textile Workers of America, Local 1874, was the largest contribution received from any organization yesterday, the fifth day of the annual Red Cross Roll Call of the Allegheny County Chapter. It was announced by Mrs. George Henderson, chairman.

A contribution of $90 was received from the Bolt and Forge Department, of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, Mrs. Henderson said.

Ten-dollar contributions were received from the Western Maryland Industrial Union Council and Thomas Paris, manager of the American Hat Cleaning Company.

Officials of the textile union informed Mrs. Henderson that the organization will continue to accept memberships for the Red Cross.

A check-up last evening showed that contributions totaling $1,860.91 had been received for the five days of the campaign. This figure failed to include reports from the various chairmen and workers in the business district and points in the county outside of Cumberland.

The campaign will be concluded with a dinner at which time a complete report on contributions and memberships will be announced.

Junior Chamber To Make Survey Next Week

Conlon Is Named Chairman of Committee; City Contributes $100

A committee headed by Thomas F. Conlon, city finance commissioner, and composed of representatives of local fraternal, civic, service and business organizations, was appointed by Mayor Harry Irvine last evening at a meeting at the city hall for the purpose of soliciting funds to decorate the principal business sections of Cumberland for the Christmas holiday season.

Irvine Calls Meeting

Members of the Christmas Decorations committee in addition to Conlon, who was designated as a representative of Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, are Harold W. Smith, of the Kiwanis Club; George Williamson, of Cumberland Lodge No. 63, B.P.O. Elks; Edward A. Cogroove, of the Exchange Club; David L. Rinker, of Henry Hart Post No. 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars; Frederick Z. Hetzel, of the Junior Association of Commerce; Adolph Hirsch, of the Mercantile Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce and John H. Mordock, manager of Sears Roebuck and Company's store, who was named treasurer.

The meeting was called by Mayor Irvine in order to eliminate the causes of dissatisfaction which have occurred in previous years due to the fact that this civic movement has been largely handled and financed by a very few people.

Irvine appointed the committee to devise ways and means of making a survey of the city to ascertain just how much money can be obtained in donations toward defraying the cost of properly decorating the business district so as to add to the spirit of the Yuletide season.

To Make Survey

Fred Z. Hetzel, president of the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce, announced that with the approval of the board of directors of his organization, members of the association will conduct a preliminary survey in the downtown area next Tuesday and Wednesday and said he was hopeful that an encouraging report will be presented to the members of the Christmas Decoration committee when it holds its next meeting Friday, November 22, at 10:30 p. m., in the auditorium of the city hall.

Merchants and business men will be felt out regarding their contribution to the decorations fund and the committee will start the campaign in earnest after the preliminary survey is completed.

The sections in the downtown business district to be decorated will depend on the amount of money contributed by local citizens.

Cost Fixed at $2,500

John H. Mordock, who acted as chairman of the meeting, said that it will cost approximately $2,500 to completely decorate Baltimore street and North Centre and North Mechanic streets to Frederick street. The cost of decorating Baltimore street alone will be $1,650.

Mordock told how interest in decorating the city at Christmas time had dwindled in recent years, pointing out that the mercantile bureau raised $1,300 in 1936, $900 in 1937 and only $500 in 1938. Lights were not put up last year and the only decorations on Baltimore street consisted of wreaths on (Continued on Page 16, Col. 4)
